Bird City Cardinals come back to the nest

By DeAnza Church

Bird City alumni gathered at the American Legion hall on Saturday night to reminisce about the past and to catch up on the current lives of classmates during the annual banquet. Welcomes were given with hugs, and smiles were abundant as each guest entered the hall.

Trimmed in Cardinal colors, red and white, the American Legion Hall made the perfect setting for the annual reunion.

Several classes were honored at this year's banquet.

Winnifred Wamhoff spoke for the class of 1935 which celebrated its 70th year. The class had 21 graduates, 10 girls and 11 boys, eight of whom still survive.

The class of 1945 was introduced by Howard Carsten. The class consisted of 22 graduates. They experienced high school during World War II and most of the boys served in some branch of the service. All remember the rationing and shortage of gas, tires and sugar.

J.D. Eggers was the spokesman for the class of 1955. He introduced Joe and Lois Haffert from Des Moines, Iowa. Mr. Haffert was principal of Bird City High School when the class was in school.

The class of 1955 had 28 graduates. Members of the class performed a juke box presentation including songs of the 1950s. Classmates, wearing clothes of that era, jitterbugged and ended the performance with the bunny hop. The set featured a soda jerk and small bottles of Coca-Cola.

Marilyn Brubaker Miller introduced the class of 1965. The class had 27 graduates. Seventeen of the graduates had been classmates together through grade school.

Beverly Beougher Schottler presented the class of 1975, which was the final graduating class of Bird City High School. Of the 22 graduates, 16 were in the same class all 13 years of school. Mrs. Schottler still has the red and white beanies the freshmen were required to wear. Her cheerleader uniform was modeled by her daughter, Megan.

Two teachers of the class were present; Winnifred Wamhoff and Ken Beougher.

The Goodland High School Expressos show choir, which rated eighth in national competition, entertained the crowd with five numbers.

Each member of the graduating classes have gone on to create many life experiences since leaving high school. They have grown up to become mothers and fathers, grandmas and grandpas, but in their hearts they still remember the days of bon fires, football games and the day they stood in the gym in their caps and gowns eager to begin their individual journeys.

The paths taken on their journeys may have led in many different directions, but the Bird City Cardinals will probably always find their way home.

McDonald Alumni reunion draws many graduates

McDonald Alumni draws many graduates

In 1975, 17 seniors were the last class to graduate from McDonald High School. In 2005, 11 members of the class returned to be hosts at the Alumni Day on Sunday.

Janice (Klepper) Busse was the master of ceremonies. She got the meeting off to a good start with group singing and drawings for door prizes. She introduced Debbie (Skolout) Cook who, in turn, introduced her classmates. Those attending with their spouses were; Kent Olson, Robbin Antholtz, Joan (Burk) Cahoj, Monica (Mears) Johnson, Rita (Deyle) Jones, Janice (Klepper) Busse, Kathleen (Roeseener) Winkelhake, Brenda (Cahoj) Weiser, Debbie (Skolout) Cook, Dorothy (Orten) Applegate and Tammy (Holub) Ginther.

On Saturday night, the class met at Big Ed's Steakhouse in Bird City for supper. After supper, they went to the home of Steve and Janice Busse where they enjoyed an evening of reminiscing.

Class of 1955

The 50 year class was introduced by Gilbert Antholtz. Of the 20 graduates, five are deceased. Of the remaining 15 classmates, 10 members and spouses attended the Saturday evening supper at Park Hill Restaurant in Atwood. Later in the evening, they had a gathering in the Fellowship Hall at the Lutheran Church. The reception table was decorated by Rathel Rueber and Delores Reeh. Cake and punch were served.

Those attending Saturday night and again on Sunday were: Ann (Banister) McKnight of Goodland, Marilyn (Briney) Henning of Colorado, Rathel (Draper) Rueber of Ludell, Beth Hallagin of Dodge City, Gloria (Hallagin) Albright and husband Tom, Leroy Kashka and wife Judy, of Kansas City, Dean Knapp and wife Theresa of Bird City, Iris (Miller) McIntosh and husband Norman of McDonald, Delores Reeh and Gilbert Antholtz and wife Janice. Gilbert thanked everyone for coming and gave a special thanks to Iris McIntosh for sending out alumni letters. Dean Weaver had stopped in on Saturday night to see his classmates.

Class of 1945

Ray Johnson was spokesperson for the class of 1945. He said that all had enjoyed the dinner at Two Lee's Steakhouse on Saturday evening. Those enjoying the dinner were Ruth (Courtright) Looney and husband Chesley, Bruce Cole and wife Barbara, Arlie Archer and wife Delores, Dorothy (Antholtz) Engleman, Raymond Johnson and wife Marlene.

Other guests were Vernon and Roberta Davis, Bill Courtright and Margie White. Attending on Sunday were Ruth Courtright, Verna (Burk) Poore, Arlie Archer, Dorothy Engleman, Bruce Cole and Lucille (Burk) Ratteree. A class picture was taken in hopes they will be good enough for printing at a later date.

Class of 1940

Bernita (Burk Sramek) Beesley introduced the class of 1940. Those present were Bernard Kacirek of Denver, Leonard Wilkinson of Atwood, Swede and Elberta (Wilkins) Calhon of St. Francis and Bernita Beesley of Quinter.

Class of 1935

Blanche (Knapp) Phifer, class of 1935, and husband John of Loop City, Neb., were the only people representing the class from 70 years ago.

Mrs. Busse announced that in the future, the 50 year class will be hosts. This means that in 2006, the class of 1956 should plan to be the host class.

Alex Thomas spoke on the plans for a cemetery directory at Grace Cemetery. This project has been approved by the Rosewood Township Board for placement near the flag pole at the cemetery. The project has been endorsed by various civic groups, such as McDonald Area Development and Lions Club. It is the Eagle Scout project for Alex Thomas, Troop 121. The total cost of the project is estimated to be $5,300. Any donations to the project can be sent to the ACE Cemetery Directory account at the People's State Bank.

Following all the introductions and the business, Pastor Greg Moyer gave thanks for the day of remembering and for the meal to be shared.

Approximately 250 alumni, families and friends enjoyed the meal and the day. It would seem that the crowds would get smaller each year, but all enjoy the day so much that they just keep coming. A special treat was the soft ice cream provided by Dan and Margie Hubbard.

Door prizes were provided by Joan Harper and also the Alumni Association. Tables were decorated by the McDonald Garden Club members.

Sheriff given permission to make emergency repairs

By Karen Krien

The sheriff told the Cheyenne County Commissioners at the Tuesday meeting that over the holiday weekend, the county was down to one working vehicle.

Sheriff Troy Gardner had called each of the commissioners when the transmission went out of the gold Blazer and they had said to get it fixed. Before the weekend was over, the fuel pump had quit working in the green Jimmy and he was able to get it fixed. However, the placement of the fuel pump made it more expensive (around $750) to replace and he had gone over the $500 limit spent without asking the commissioners for permission.

The commissioners assured Sheriff Gardner that they understood and it was an emergency situation — The county needed that vehicle back into working condition as quickly as possible.

All the repair expenses posed another problem as Sheriff Gardner said there was not enough money in this Commodities Fund. The commissioners and sheriff talked about which fund to take the needed money from, noting that there would be a negative amount in that line item. He said they had sufficient money in Capital Outlay and Personnel but the commissioners recommended that the expenses be taken out of Capital Outlay. They will talk to the auditor and see what he recommends.

Sheriff Gardner recommended that Bob Juleson, deputy, be raised to Level Two on the pay scale. He has been with the county for the required three months and had met all the expectations of the job. The commissioners agreed because the sheriff's budget could handle the increase.

The sheriff and the commissioners went into executive session for 10 minutes to discuss personnel. No decision was made.

Ambulance department

Larry Gabel, emergency medical service director, and Janelle Bowers, ambulance department bookkeeper, had the contractual write-offs in the amount of $4,300. The commissioners agreed to allow the write-offs.

The director presented his monthly budget. Commissioner Jane Brubaker asked why the phone bill was so high. He said it was because of the new phones they had purchased. The commissioners said new phones used for the ambulance service could be paid for with 911 Funds. Clerk Terry Miller said he would make the adjustments. Later, it was reported that the phones were not represented on the bill and had already been paid for using 911 Funds.

Commissioner Andy Beikman asked about re-supplying the ambulance — that it appeared there were a lot of new supplies. Mr. Gabel said many of the supplies were outdated and needed to be replaced.

The director and commissioners then turned to the collection of delinquent bills of those who had used the ambulance and either insurance or Medicare/Medicaid had not paid

4-H Livestock show held in St. Francis

Saturday, the 4-H Livestock Show was held in St. Francis. There were youth attending from Colorado, Nebraska and Kansas.

It had been a number of years since Cheyenne County hosted a 4-H Livestock Show. Tye Faulkender, Extension director, reported that the turnout was great and the show went smoothly.

"We had lots of good volunteer help and that's what helped make the show one of the best," he said, noting that the quality of livestock was also excellent.

A livestock show is planned for next year with the date pending.

Results of the show follows. It should be noted that the youth are listed in the order they placed and the county which they were representing is after the name.

the entire bill or they had no insurance.

The commissioners talked about ways of collecting the money including putting a lien on their state income taxes. Mr. Beikman said he hated to see the commissioners bent on getting a person's last dime. Mrs. Brubaker also pointed out there are those who will abuse the system.

The commissioners agreed to have county attorney Justin Barrett review these bills and determine if a settlement can be reached and at what percentage of the bill would be acceptable. There were three bills, one which had gone back to 1999, which the commissioners wrote off.

Motor Vehicle Fund
County treasurer Dolores Jenik said that some treasurers are misusing the Motor Vehicle Fund (the name has been Treasurer's Special Fund). She said that some commissioners are not aware of the fund. This was not the case of the Cheyenne County Commissioners as the money left at the end of the year is transferred into the county's General Fund.

The fund was set up many years ago when the treasurer's offices were contracted for renewal and title work for vehicles. In a year, Cheyenne County collects around $20,000. The money is used to buy paper products, pay dues and costs of meetings.

Last year, between $13,000 and $18,000 was transferred into the county's General Fund.

Mrs. Jenik said she will be making quarterly budgets and will bring them to the commissioners' for their approval. She indicated that the reason for the commissioners' approval was to make sure they were aware of this money and how it is being spent.

Road and bridge

Dave Flemming, county road and bridge department supervisor, agreed to the preliminary engineering contract for $19,000 with Penco Engineering. The contract work is for the Runzel Bridge project northwest of St. Francis.

The Olofson Bridge Project was also discussed. The county will pay the landowners $100 each for temporary easements and $100 each for the right-of-way purchase for a total of $600.

Members place flowers

Regent Anabelle Rueb, and Margaret Bucholtz, members of Good-Land Chapter of the Daughters of American Revolution, took on a project of decorating a rural cemetery in Cheyenne County. This year, the cemetery decorated was the Grand Army of the Republic Cemetery which is located about 2 miles north of St. Francis.

Marilyn Holzwarth wrote in the Cheyenne County History Book that David and Fannie Oglesbee sold 5 acres in 1889 to the Wano Post

In other business

The commissioners talked briefly about a discussion Commissioner Beikman had with Scott Schultz, St. Francis mayor. The city council may be interested in extending the zoning of the city 10,000 feet in order to clean up some of the property around St. Francis. The matter was discussed at the last city council meeting. No decision was made but Mayor Schultz plans to come to a future commissioners' meeting.

The county attorney said re-programming radio frequency for the different departments and the labor for putting up road/street signs were both acceptable uses of 911 funds.

The county clerk had talked to Roxie Neitzel at Neitzel Insurance about the replacement costs on some of the fairground buildings. She had said that the company is covering what the cost would be to replace the building(s) exactly like they were. So, Jenkins Hall and the livestock barn, which are both constructed out of blocks, would probably cost more to replace than a pole building. The county has the option of a "cash value policy" but it would cost more. No decision was made.

The clerk had sent out four bid packets for fire trucks which will be purchased partially with grant funding. The bids will be opened at 10 a.m. at the June 5 commissioner meeting.

Charlotte Linsner, Northwest Kansas Family Shelter representative, introduced Carol Redding as a volunteer for the shelter. She detailed work the shelter has done with Cheyenne County and asked that they receive support for the program. In the past, the county attorney has given $500 from the Diversion Fund and Attorney Barrett agreed to give the funding again this year.

Those representing the High Plains Mental Health at the meeting were Carol Rogers, Ilene O'Leary and Tammy Pettijohn, St. Francis; Tracy Winchester-Hillman, the local representative, along with Karen Beery, manager of consultation and education, and Wait Hill, director, asked that Cheyenne County not cut funding. The county currently gives the service $5,880 a year.

312 of the Grand Army of the Republic for $1 for a cemetery. The east side was exclusively for the burial of Grand Army of Republic Comrades and their families and the west half was to be used for the burial of citizens and their families. No lots were to be sold, only a donation was to be taken. This provision was made to enable destitute Civil War veterans an honorable and dignified burial.

There were 14 tombstones that they placed flowers beside.
