

Tornado destruction shown

The cellar at the Nick Ketzner farm was a lifesaving place during the storm. However, the door was ripped off and a wagon wheel was thrown down the steps.

Staff photo by Melinda Basnett

The metal building which housed the Glasco's farm machinery and other vehicles was torn off by the tornado, and the machinery tossed around.

Staff photo by Melinda Basnett

All of the Glasco's vehicles were damaged. This is what is left of their car.

Staff photo by Amanda Barnhart

Heidi Ketzner sorted through some of the debris after the tornado.

Staff photo by Melinda Basnett

The vacant home belonging to Keith Dorsch was piled in the basement. Notice the trees and the way the tornado stripped them.

Staff photo by Melinda Basnett

Most of the Oscar Johnson barn was gone.

Staff photo by Melinda Basnett