Arrival of new doctor discussed at hospital board meeting

By Karen Krien
karenk@nwkansas.com

The new doctor will begin at the hospital in August and the Cheyenne County Hospital board, at the Thursday meeting, spent time talking about getting ready for her arrival.

Dr. Rebecca Allard will be specializing in obstetrics and plans for getting a labor/delivery room remodeled have been underway for several months. GMCN Architect, Garden City, had turned in a bill for $2,933 which the board voted to pay.

The bids for the electrical and mechanical work will need to be sent out. The architect plans needed to be finalized before bidding could begin. This work is estimated to cost around $40,000 to $50,000.

Les Lacy, administrator, reported that Dr. Mekki Saba, orthopedic surgeon from Colby, will be coming in the third Friday of every month. He has also talked to Karen Johnson, a dermatologist certified in mole removal, who has shown interest in coming.

Another remodeling/addition plan which received a great deal of discussion was parking for patients, visitors and staff. Administrator Lacy said the city will close the street in front of the hospital for repairs in the near future. The street will be closed for three days to one week.

During that time, arrangements will need to be made for alternative parking as well as foot and wheelchair traffic between the hospital and clinic. While the street is being repaired, to improve the connection between the clinic and the hospital, the city supervisor and the administrator and is considering the option of putting in a 6-inch slab of concrete across the street for better wheelchair access.

Parking for visitors and staff has been an issue. Eventually, the east side of the hospital grounds will be turned into a parking area similar to the west side. However, there will still be limited parking. In recent months, a lot with a house on the north side of the hospital (across the alley) has come up for sale. After considerable discussion, the board agreed to purchase the property. Eventually, the house will be razed and the lot used for additional hospital parking.

The memorial garden on the northwest side of the hospital is still under construction. Elmer Kellner and the Join Hands group had moved rock in an area which could not be reached by a tractor which had helped a great deal.

In the lab department, a technique in the microbiology section is being used to shorten the time span required to identify growth in specimens.

"This provides a diagnostic advantage to the providers," the administrator said.

Lifeline service
The hospital could be the provider for Lifeline services in the near future. Glenn and Millie Glasco have been the coordinator for this service for many years.

Lifeline provides a small device which elderly patients wear around their neck. If they fall or there is an emergency, the patient presses the button which alerts Lifeline Systems in Framingham, Maine. The system's personnel tries to contact the subscriber and, if necessary, notifies emergency medical technicians and/or law officers to go to the scene.

Administrator Lacy said there are 37 devices in the county and currently, 33 are being used. The cost of having a Lifeline device is $50 a month.

There are expenses which includes the company which alerts medical and law officers when the device is used, bookkeeping and replacement costs.

"It (Lifeline service) is a minimum load on the hospital but gives maximum benefits to the community," he said.

Kitchen manager's report
Christa Brown, manager, reported on the kitchen department. She said, in the past month, the kitchen had prepared 101 guest meals, 2,362 patient meals and 2,875 employee meals.

She said adding the salad bar to the menu has been a big plus for those eating at the hospital. However, the small dining area is a challenge when it comes to accommodating a number of people.

Mrs. Brown said she is looking forward to the renovation of the kitchen. The freezers leak and she would like to see it replaced with a walk-in freezer which would take up less space and free up more area for the salad bar.

She said that she has worked in the kitchen for three years and likes enjoying the staff and patients.

"I like making people happy," she said.

Mr. Lacy said that there are favorable comments from the patients and one had actually asked to stay until after lunch.

In other business
In other business:

• Dave Dellasega, chief financial officer for Great Plains Health Alliance, gave the audit report.

• Dr. Mary Beth Miller commended the board for their foresight. See related article.

Next meeting
The next hospital board meeting has been set for 3 p.m. on Thursday, July 26, in the St. Francis Clinic basement.

Extension Notes

Vegetables produce flowers but no fruit

Several years ago I had several squashes in my garden and they bloomed and bloomed, but no fruit. It took a little time to figure out what was going on, no pollination.

If you have vegetables that are blooming but not setting fruit, you may have a problem with pollination of the flowers. There are several possible reasons that usually vary by species.

However, we do have one condition that can affect several species at the same time. Too much nitrogen causes the plant to emphasize vegetative growth often to the detriment of fruit production. Over-fertilization can lead to a delay in flower production as well as to a decrease in fruit set among the flowers that are produced.

Squash can have a couple of other problems. First, the early flowers on these plants are usually all male. The production of both male and female flowers becomes more balanced as time passes. You can easily tell the difference between the two because only the female flower has a tiny fruit behind the blossom. If you have both, haven't over-fertilized and still have a problem, make sure you have pollinators.

Look for the presence of bees visiting the plants. If you don't see any, try hand-pollinating several flowers. Use a painter's brush to transfer pollen from the anther of the male flower to the stigma of the female flower. If you get fruit on only those flowers you pollinated, you need more pollinators. Make sure you aren't killing them with overuse of insecticides.

Tomatoes are wind pollinated and therefore are not dependent on pollinators. However, they have another possible problem. Tomatoes normally won't set if the night temperature is below 50 due to sparse production of pollen. They also won't set when night temperatures are above 75 degrees and day temperatures are above 95 degrees F with dry, hot winds.
