On Thursday, May 14, the community of Bird City, Cheylin School staff and students attended a retirement party for Judy Poore, Roseanna Underwood, Marjean Zumbahlen and David Zumbahlen.

The program was to give recognition and appreciation to the guests of honor. Cheylin seniors shared with the audience moments each had given to the students over the years.

Like the time Sam Hengen and Taylor Leibbrandt told everyone that their teacher, Mrs. Poore, was cursing when she said to her class, "Sit down you munchkins!"

Kaedra Dixon and Lincoln Pochop spoke of looking back at the times Mr. Zumbahlen would send them to Tammi Carmichael's fourth grade class and recited, "These hands are my hands and I must keep them to myself," one of his most often spoken reprimand.

Mr. Zumbahlen presented special recognitions to Mrs. Poore and Mrs. Zumbahlen for the combined teaching of over 70 years. Mrs. Zumbahlen received an award with the words "You never stand as tall as when you bend down to help a child," engraved on it.

Mrs. Poore was presented with a crystal bowl with the engraved words, "You embrace all children who come, lead them beyond their imagination and teach them beyond their dreams." She thanked the staff and students for the wonderful years and spoke of gratitude for the sacrifices her family gave so that she could teach.

All the Cheylin students gathered to watch a slideshow and sing "American Tears," a tribute to American heroes from the last 100 years.

"Do what you like and aspire to be the best," said Mr. Zumbahlen, speaking to the students.

For the finale, each student put on a hat or cap and tipped it to Mr. Zumbahlen, it was a light-hearted jester in the light of the "no hats allowed" school rule.
