My step-father, Richard Seno, ended his battle with cancer last week. After more than a year of ups and downs battling the incurable disease, he left on his own terms.

Richard had had enough of hospitals. The last two weeks he was able to be home with loved ones. His wife, Susan, and three children, Roland, George and Regina, and their spouses and children, kept a constant vigil.

The Italian-American from Chicago was surrounded by the familiar smell of tomato sauce simmering on the stove. Priests and Catholic laymen prepared him to be with his Creator. And all the while, a family member was near to comfort him and make him as comfortable as possible.

When the last hour approached, Richard was listening to Luciano Pavarotti sing operatic arias. Then a rerun of his favorite television episode was put on: M*A*S*H's "5 O'clock Charlie." He was not alone in the warmth of his home.

May we all be as blessed to leave this world as rich a man as Richard Seno.

I think the free ride is over for the Democrats. Maybe you have and you may not have noticed how the Democrats are jumping ship. It might not seem like a lot, but I don't remember the last time I heard from so many legislators that they will not seek re-election this year.

There is something to be said about that and I am just the person to do it.

I have been listening to the reasons behind the sudden bale outs and most of the reasons appear to be made out of fear. Yeah, the fear of tomatoes being thrown at them!

Seriously, I don't really believe anyone is going to get a tomato in their faces, but Americans are beginning to take notice at what is going on in our nation's capitol, many of us for the first time.

I recently watched a Sarah Palin speech and what I found refreshing is that if she seeks a presidential nomination, she will first do her homework and study what the people want and talk to heads of states in Washington. Don't you think we are worth at least that bit of effort?

And we voters must do our homework also. One of the things that happened in the last election is that voters let the media do all the work, and most did not address or explore what many felt to be important, background information. Some of President Obama's background information is still being challenged, and there is still confusion about his religion which he professed to be Christian, but is able to quote the Koran more accurately than the Bible.

About those Democrats, I recently heard one say he is getting out because of the way Congress is being run, DUH. However, that should be more of a reason to stay in and work from the inside, he is really jumping ship before it sinks.

A few clichés come to mind when I think about what is happening in Washington like this one-to test the strength of a tea bag, it has to be dipped in hot water or a chain is as strong as its weakest link. And this is one of my favorite-when a ship is sinking, it's the rats that jump off first.

Letters to the Editor

Letter to the Editor:

To the citizens of Cheyenne County:

You are a credit to the good old Red, White, and Blue and the system of government we all question at times, but wouldn't trade for anything else in the world! You came out in record numbers to greet our representatives from Topeka. And I assure you, they left here with that indelible mark!

Thank you, Alisa Rath and the Farm Bureau for your graciousness in responding to the request for a larger venue and for getting things all arranged.

Thank you, journalists and photographers of The Saint Francis Herald and Bird City Times, for being there to make sure this event was covered.

Thank you, Superintendents Schiltz and Bolen (and Werner!) for making sure that sham information was not allowed to go unchallenged. I am sure our good legislators will do their homework a little better the next time they come our direction.

Thank you, Community Builders and others who worked on getting the word out and getting the rest of us educated on the issues.

And most of all - thank you for all who got up early on a long weekend to be there to share the concerns. If the same percentage of population of one of the big counties would show up in their respective areas, there would not be a venue big enough to hold them. We may be small, sparse, and far from Topeka, but in a political system based on the common man...we were BIG!

Topeka - are you listening?

Mary Beth Miller
St. Francis

Letter to the Editor,

Let me start by saying that it was wonderful to see citizens from across Cheyenne County united in one room on Saturday with a common purpose. It is more important than ever that we all work together to keep what we have in this wonderful county, as well as strive to make it an even better place to live. Many services have already been taken away from us and we need to stem the tide.

At least our legislators got the message that we care about what is happening in Topeka and that we will keep paying attention to what they do. They don't have an easy job even in the best of times, but they need to know what our feelings are, and we need to stay in touch with them about any issues that affect us.

No one wants to pay more taxes (or even current ones), but we all expect the government, whether it be local, state or national, to provide the services we personally need or want. Most Americans say that they want smaller government and lower taxes, but would be appalled, for instance, if children died of E. Coli because we didn't have enough food inspectors. We might force the school to cut their budget, but then complain because kids aren't getting enough education. Of course, we want the clinic/hospital/emergency medical service to have the personnel and equipment to take care of us when we get sick or hurt. And, we certainly expect our streets and roads to be properly maintained!

Maybe we tag our vehicles in another state or shop there because the taxes are lower, but somehow I fail to believe that we can call that state when we need the fire department, the ambulance or a bridge repaired. When you shop online, (sometimes that is the only place we can find what we need), you are not only hurting the local merchant, but hurting yourself because there is no sales tax revenue that will help us locally and statewide. If the local merchant goes out of business because of a lack of customers, then it hurts our economy with lost jobs and less sales and property tax, and maybe fewer kids in school.

Please be supportive of Cheyenne County government and businesses, and let our Kansas and U.S. Representatives and Senators, as well as local officials, know your opinion of issues they are considering.

If you hear a rumor about something, find out the facts. There have been a lot of falsehoods floating around about the funding issues. If there is a meeting being held, be sure to be there. We all need to stay informed as to what is happening, and not feel that we are helpless to doing anything about it. You can make a difference!
