"And the LORD God planted a garden eastward in Eden; and there he put the man whom he had formed." Genesis 2:8.

Lucas is located about 16 miles north of I-70, between Hays and Salina. It is a sleepy little town of about 450 folks. What a surprising place to find S.P. Dinsmoor's vision of heaven and earth.

For years I have driven along that stretch of highway and seen the signs directing the curious to "The Garden of Eden." A Bucholtz family camping to trip to Lake Wilson gave me the excuse needed to visit Lucas and this unique spectacle.

Dinsmoor was a Civil War vet, present when Robert E. Lee surrendered, who after the war ended up in north-central Kansas. With the help of four men, he brought native limestone from a nearby quarry to build his "stone log cabin." But he didn't stop there.

Concrete became the medium that he used to create elaborate shapes and figures to tell stories. Thus came about his Garden of Eden. Adam and Eve stand before a grape arbor as other biblical figures help tell stories from the book of Genesis.

Dinsmoor, a Populist politician, also had some strong opinions about big government and big business. Some of his sculptures make statements of what he thought about the direction America was going during the early part of the 20th Century.

Having a bit of P.T. Barnum in him, Dinsmoor wanted to make sure people would get off the beaten path and visit his Garden of Eden. Perhaps part of that is done by visitors stopping to see the old man himself. A tour of the site ends with viewing him through a piece of Plexiglas as he lies at rest in his mausoleum in the backyard of the stone log cabin property.

Dinsmoor's Garden of Eden was recently taken over by the Kohler Foundation, the plumbing fixture company, which focuses on the preservation of outdoor art exhibits. After restoration of the sculptures and property has been completed, it will be given to the Friends of S.P. Dinsmoor group in Lucas. This should insure that many more of the curious will take the turnoff on K-232 to see the old man's vision of the here and the here-after.

Two St. Francis youth arrested

By Karen Krien
karen.k@nwkansas.com

In the early hours of the morning of July 24, Dalton Magnani, Bird City, rolled his pickup and was air lifted to a Denver hospital. As of Tuesday, little information was available on his condition. Rumor had it that the surgery went well and he is doing as well as can be expected.

In conjunction with the accident, Logan Lampe, St. Francis, 21 years of age, was arrested on the charge of hosting minors consuming alcohol at his house. The first hearing was held on July 25 and trial was set for Aug. 11. He was released on a $10,000 bond.

Also arrested was Melissa Burton, St. Francis, 22 years of age, charged with intentionally furnishing alcohol to minors. She will appear in district court on Aug. 4. She was released on a $5,000 bond.

Club Clip

The Bird City Historical Association

The Bird City Historical Association met on July 8 at the Bird City Senior Center. There were nine present for the interesting meeting. For the program, each member was to bring a book of history which they had enjoyed reading and share something about this book...what had made it interesting. Here are some of these books:

- Life in Sherman County from 1902 - 1905, The Range War Era, compiled and edited by Evelyn M. Ward, Sherman County. The information for this book came from the Goodland News.
- "Those Who Cried the 16,000," arranged and edited by James W. Tyner. This book is the record of the Cherokee's.
- "Seal of the Cherokee Nation," written Sept. 6, 1839.
- "Pioneer Neighbors from St. Francis."
- Another book that was written from the Amish about the Eller family, "Ancestors of the North Cutts."
- Another great book was a Cemetery Directory of the Amish Community in the Eastern Holmes and Adjoining Counties in Ohio. This was purchased in a Broom Maker's Shop in Ohio.
- "Under God" was written by Toby Mac and Michael Tait. This is a book of many stories about the founders of this country and other great leaders...but these stories are little known. Some of these stories are no longer taught in public schools, although they were in history books before 1930.

- "No Time on My Hands," written by Mabel Yost. It was written about Nellie Snyder Yost who had three goals for her life: 1. To make the handsomest quilt. 2. To marry a cowboy and 3. To see the tops of clouds. She was able to reach all three of these goals and the story tells how she was able to accomplish these.
- "The Worst Hard Times," by Timothy Egan. This is really Dorothy Mast's story as she went through the dust bowl time and became very ill when she was about 10 years old. She was not able to walk, and was becoming weaker day by day. A doctor told the family that if they did not get Dorothy away from Baca County, Colo., she would not live very long. Her grandmother came up with the money to move them to LaVita, Colo., in Cuchura Valley, thus saving her life.

This was a very interesting time of sharing with one another and those attending learned a lot about this area and from each other's choice of books. They also talked about new projects for the association to choose to do, but no decision was made. Dorothy also gave directions and extra hints for making corn husk dolls.

Anyone who has an interest in the Bird City Area or the surrounding area, is welcome to join the group on the second Friday of each month at the Bird City Senior Center at 2 p.m.

Congressman set to visit St. Francis

Congressman Tim Huelskamp has announced the dates and locations of four town hall meetings that he will host in August. These are the meetings that were postponed due to unforeseen changes in the Congressional calendar.

He will be in St. Francis for the Cheyenne County meeting from 3 to 4 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 17, in the commissioners' room in the courthouse.

"We have heard from hundreds of constituents over the past few weeks as Washington attempts to deal with the debt and spending problems facing our country," Congressman Huelskamp said. "I look forward to continuing to listen to what Kansans have to say on these issues and others. After all, Washington still has a lot of work to do when it comes to reducing excessive spending. I need to hear from Kansans what their priorities are."
