

Troy's Transformation Auto Repair open for business

Troy's Transformation Auto Repair has reopened full time. He is back in his shop on West U.S. 36.

Owned and operated by Troy Meyer, the business offers customers windshield, headlight, turn signals and tail light repairs, handle and switch repair, windshield replacements, work on grills and window regulators. He will also do small welding jobs.

"I can do just any and all repairs that do not need painting," Mr. Meyer said.

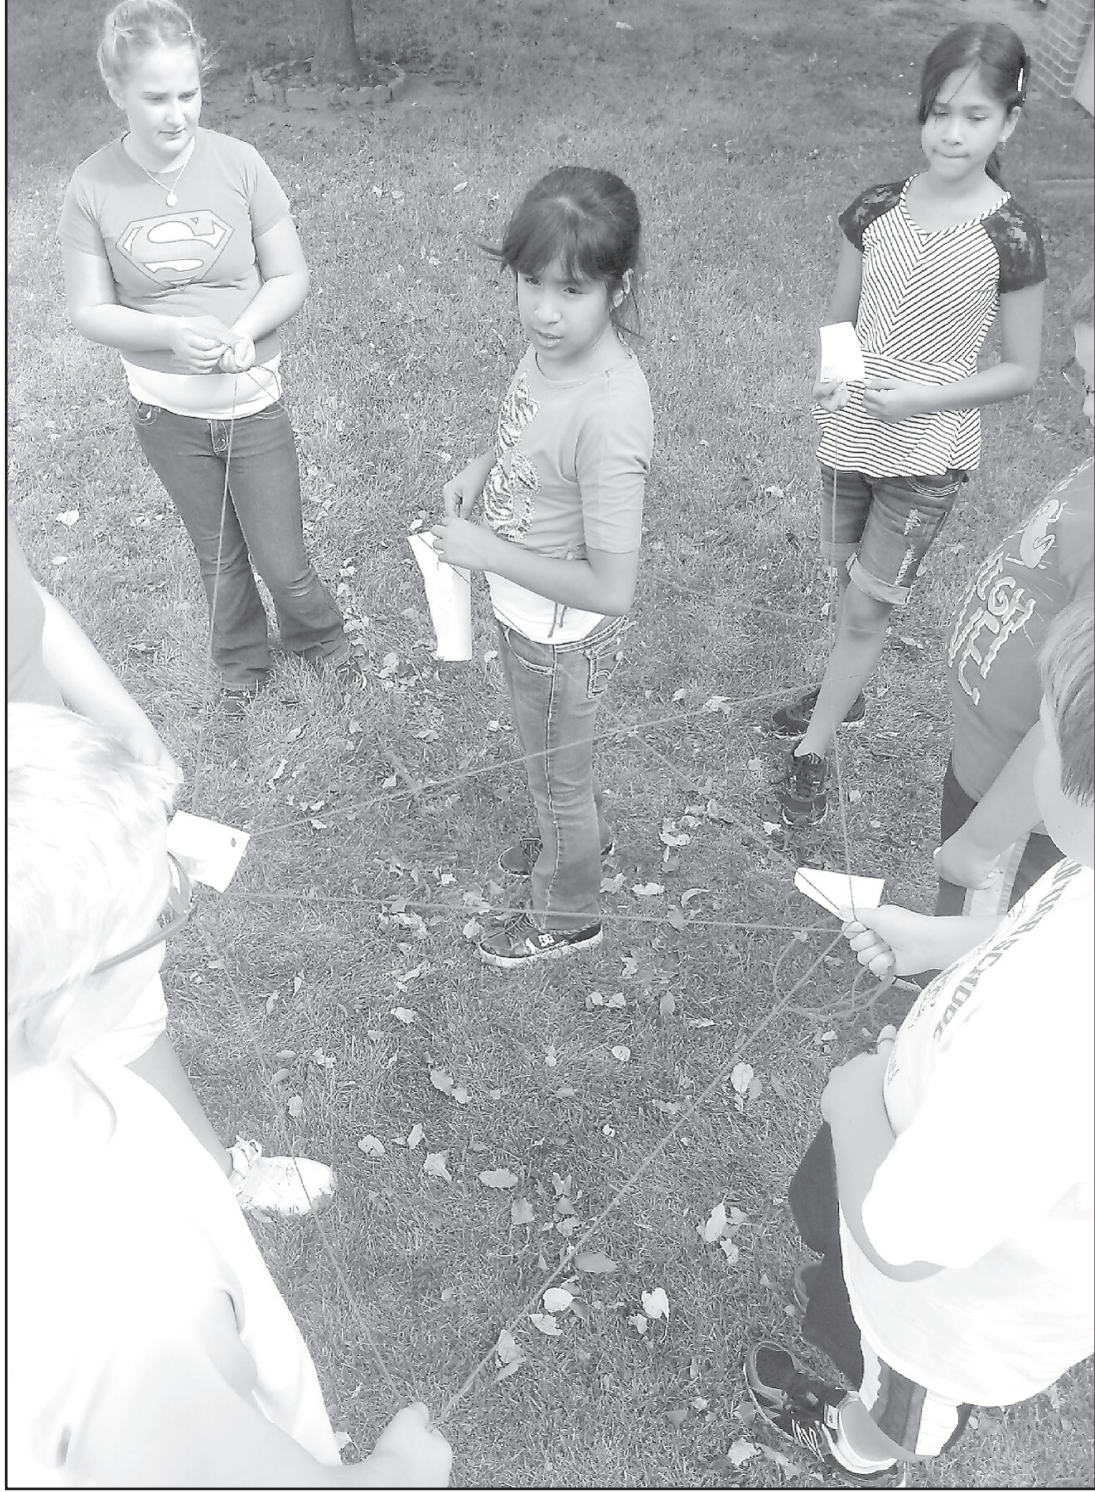

Several months ago, Mr. Meyer was told by doctors that he could no longer paint vehicles so he decided to try to help customers by working part time. However, he missed working full time at something he loved doing.

"So, I'm back!" he said. The auto repair shop will be open Mondays through Fridays, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. or people can call him to make an appointment at 785-332-2133

I'm looking forward to working with previous customers as well as meeting new customers.

AMY MOREE'S fifth grade class has been studying Animal Adaptations and the "Blubber Mittens" in science. Last Friday they participated in a hands on activity to classify animals and food webs. The focus of this activity was to show the students how, if one animal became extinct or moved, it would affect the entire food web and balance of nature.

Cheyenne County Hospital Guild

The Cheyenne County Hospital Guild met on Monday, Oct. 7, at the Senior Citizens building in St. Francis. Eighteen members and one guest were present. Acting president, DeEtta Knorr, opened the meeting by welcoming guest speaker, Vicki Hubin. She was representing the Western Kansas Child Advocacy Center. This center covers 30 counties in western Kansas with stand-alone centers located in Colby, Scott City and Sublette. There is a mobile unit that travels where needed, so that the children do not have to leave their towns to be interviewed.

There is also a rolling medical unit that travels to the towns. In the medical unit, wellness exams, medical assessments and therapy can be done.

The mobile unit brings the services to the children. If this was not used, children would have to be interviewed 13 times.

Ms. Hubin said that children tell the truth, so if a child tells you they have been abused, you need to call an expert to take over from there.

There are three main types of abuses: Sexual, Physical, and Children that witness a violent crime.

She stated that one in four girls and one in six boys are sexually abused by the age of 18, and only one in 10 tell about the abuse. Eighty percent usually know the abuser.

The staff of the Advocacy Center is available to speak to service groups or at community events. The members enjoyed the informative meeting.

The business meeting was conducted by vice president, DeEtta Knorr.

The meeting was adjourned. Anita Miller and Betty Winston, hostesses, served cake and coffee for refreshments.

The next meeting will be held at 2 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 4, at the Senior Citizens Center. The program will be presented by Candi Douthit on the organ donor program. Hostesses will be Carol Rogers and Jo Ford.
