Administrator speaks to club members

Coni Park, administrator of the Andbe Home, was the guest speaker at the April 11 meeting of the Norton Lions club. Ms. Park spoke to the club about the new special care unit at the home. She said the unit was established to provide an additional option for care of residents with special needs. She said the objective of the unit was to help residents maintain the highest practical level of function; to minimize dysfunctional behavior; to encourage participation in group and individual activities; and to have the resident be comfortable and satisfied with their living arrangement.

She said the west hall (blue hall) houses the Special Care unit and is filled with the maximum capacity of eight residents. Club members learned a geriatric psychiatrist works with the residents. In other business members learned: the annual birthday/anniversary calendar sales are complete. the swing set will be placed at the Andbe Home very soon. April 25 is Service Learning Day and the club will fix hamburgers for approximately 160 students in Elmwood Park.

Bake your best for a fund-raising bake sale

Roll out the rolling pins! Cut out some cookies! It's time for a bake sale! Bake sales are a fun, tasty way to raise money for a variety of causes. It's a great way to build positive community support and to showcase talented bakes both young and old.

With a little planning, any bake sale can turn a profit. Use some clever marketing strategies to entice customers to buy a tasty treat. Here are some tips to make a bake sale a success:

- Tie the bake sale with large community events. Have a theme such as a town centennial, holidays (like Easter), or festivals. Get permission if needed to set up in a great location for people traffic. Promotion helps. Put up fliers and advertise in the local news. Set up a phone committee. Call each member; confirm what they'll bring and where and when to deliver. Remember good food safety practices. Provide new plastic food bags in a variety of sizes for delivering baked goods. Remind members some items cannot be sold (refrigeration required) such as custard or cream pies, meat or cheese fillings. Bake together by using a community or church kitchen. Bake or create mixes together so that everyone can participate. Bake for everyone. Make sugar-free or gluten-free goodies. Label everything with the product name, ingredient list, and price. This helps those with food allergies. Tie with a bow! An attractive wrapping can attract customers.

Divide products into "snack" packages for one or two as well as "family size packs".

- Promote your organization and how the money will be used. Use bright tablecloths, streamers, - use your organization's colors. Courtesy counts! Always say "thank you" to your customers. Bake for pets. Many customers not only buy treats for themselves but for their four-legged friends too. Price for easy payment and change. Use increments of 25 cents. Offer a bite size sample. Include small cups of water, tea or coffee. Sell by the slice on site. Have some products to sell fresh or by the slice (one or two rolls; cookie pizza slices; muffins; a soft pretzel).
