By JAKE DURHAM

It was another night of the full moon which seemed to add more excitement to the evening as the Faithful gathered for the first pitch tournament of the New Year.

The Grandmothers were exchanging family Christmas pictures and sharing hard candy, the Pig Skin followers were trying to explain what happened to the Sooners and giving odds on Ohio State. There were lots of sounds coming from the knock table and the Women's coalition was making arrangements for a celebration. The minute hand was straight up on twelve and the Brown Eyed Girl shouted, "Begin to Compence", and thirty and six rushed to their assigned tables.

Those under the gun started the pushing as the bidding got under way in pursuit of the trump suit and an element of control. The Young and the Restless seemed to be going all out from the start but as the tallies were turned in, it was the Red Neck and the Black Hat Kid that captured the initial lead with the high round score. Being a rather quiet team, they predicted the best was yet to come but refused to give any odds which was to their advantage as they hit the wall on round two as the Muddy River Boys capitalized on two good hands for second round honors but the lead went to the Carpenter and the Auctioneer. The Main Man and the SportsCaster hit a three pointer on round three for the honors but the bragging rights for the lead went to the hat Man and the Poultry King who had been working their way up the ladder since round one. As round four got underway, the Brown Eyed Girl called for a break and as the scores were posted, the Honeymooners had captured the honors but the lead changed for the fourth time as the Fast Track couple moved to the top. Everyone seemed to make their own appraisal as they viewed the board to determine strategy for the coming rounds but no one seemed too concerned as the larger part of the tournament was yet to come.

The board showed a tight group at the top as the first and the fifth place teams were only six points apart and most of the field was within striking distance with a good round. With that in mind, most everyone must have felt a comfort zone as the fifth round got underway, the bidding was more intense than before. The Carpenter and the Auctioneer took fifth round honors but for the first time, the lead stayed with the lead team going into the round. Maybe a trend, maybe not, only time would tell. The Dawgs started barking on round six and for good reason as the score sheets began showing more circles than before. The Secretary and the Traveling Man took sixth round honors and to no one's surprise, the Fast Track team, showing signs of confidence and delight, maintained the lead for the third time in a row.

By now, there were definitely two opposite groups, those who needed to make some gains at all costs as they had to get back into contention and those who needed to play it safe and not falter by over-bidding and dropping out of the upper echelon, and as round seven got underway, some looks of concern began to show. The Conservatives were taking a second look while the Liberals were pushing all the way. Team Double Z took seventh round honors and moved up a couple of notches on the leader board and for the fourth time in a row, the lead stayed with the Fast Track Team who showed no signs of letting up.

The crucial eighth and ninth rounds were coming up and as the eighth round got underway, the Brown Eyed Girl sounded the alarm for a final break which seemed to be long overdue by most. The Solomon River Boys captured the honors on round eight and even though they dropped below double digits on their score sheet for the first time, the distribution was in their favor as the Fast Trackers were able to maintain their lead. Some serious skull sessions were taking place during the break so as to mentally diagnose their situation, but just what to do was another story. To have good cards and not bid enough and let a good hand slip away could be just as disastrous as over-bidding and as the gong sounded to start round nine, there were those who showed definite signs of stress.

The pace seemed slower as round nine got underway and the playing continued to be more deliberate and as the tallies were turned in to be recorded, most looked the situation over for reassurance. Car King and the Irrigator captured the honors on round nine and although the Fast Track team faltered once again, the distribution was again in their favor and they held to the lead by one point over the Carpenter and the Auctioneer who were six points ahead of the Mail Man and SportsCaster who were two points ahead of the Double Z team who was one point ahead of another half dozen and so once again the final round would determine the winner. As the Golden Girls said, "It doesn't get any better than this." The tenth round got underway and the bidding was sporadic to say the least and everyone was hoping for a good last round. The usual last round groans and moans could be heard from around the room and as the tallies were turned in and recorded, the lead changed several times and as the final count was recorded, Car King and the Irrigator had captured the honors and the Fast Track team had held off all challengers to capture the crown. A fantastic finish for a game well-played and the newly crowned champs showed great humility as they received their accolades from their peers and vowed to return to defend their title.

The top ten teams in order were: 1. Ed and Cynthia Glennemeier 2. J. D. Daffer and Duane McEwen 3. Arnold and Dorothy Zillinger 4. Weldon Brooks and Jake Durham 5. Norman Walter and Marshall Henderson 6. Ron and Sondra Kester 7. Coy Christy and John Hildebrand 8. Jeanette Groothoff and Cyrena Kester 9. Dan Hazlett and Fig Millan 10. Dee and Thelma Bushnell.

Winning score by the Glennemeiers was 115 points for an average of 11.5 points per round. Highest single round score was 21 points by Daffer and McEwen. Double high round winners were Norman Walter and Marshall Henderson. Other high round winners were: Tony Hildebrand and Larry Harmon; John Hildebrand and Coy Cristy; Dan Hazlett and Fig Millan; Jason and Stacy Breiner; Dee and Thelma Bushnell; Arnold and Dorothy Zillinger; Todd and Doyle Brooks. Other teams not previously mentioned were: Jerry Darling and Lynn Thiele; Brad McMullen and Austin Brooks; Joyce Sumner and Eleanor Jensen; Myron Veh and Dick Hemphill.

The usual post mortems could be heard around the room and an Elvis tune could be heard in the distance. A quick look at the new calendar on the wall showed the first Sunday in February to be on the fourth. So bring your partner and sign in early, the games start at 7 p.m.
