

OBITUARIES

Maryllin J. Locy Jan. 17, 1936-Sept. 9, 2008

Maryllin J. Locy, 72, of Kearney, Neb., died Tuesday, Sept. 9 at her residence. Graveside services were held this morning at the Norcat (Kansas) Cemetery with Rev. Larry Danforth officiating. Memorials are suggested to the Lupus Foundation.

Online condolences or personal reflections can be submitted at osafh.com. O'Brien-Straatmann Funeral Home of Kearney handled arrangements.

Mrs. Locy was born Jan. 17, 1936 in Norcat to Joseph and Pearl (Bowser) Alexander. She grew up on a farm outside Norcat and graduated from Norcat High School in 1953. On Oct. 25, 1953 she married Jay Locy in Norcat. She was a bank teller and worked in Manhattan for 10 years. They moved around often, settling in Kearney in April of 2006. She was a member of the United Methodist Church in Norcat and the VFW Auxiliary. She enjoyed reading, doing jigsaw and crossword puzzles, embroidery, cooking and traveling.

Survivors include her husband, Jay of Kearney; son Scott Locy and wife Sally Ann of Jacksonville, Fla.; daughter Shelley Reich and husband Jeff of Phoenix; sister Beverly Lintz and husband Barry of Syracuse, Ind.; and 5 grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her parents and her son, Craig Alan Locy.

O'Brien-Straatmann Funeral Home is located at 4115 Avenue N, P.O. Box 2344, Kearney, Neb., 68848-2344. (303) 234-3500.

Aging Expo next at Oakley service center

Drum circles have been around since ancient times and still exist all over the world today. But did you know they're good for you? Recent research on rhythm therapy shows that it enhances short-term memory, mind-body coordination and can even help remedy impaired speech patterns, a common result of problems associated with aging, accidents and disease.

At Full Circle... an Aging Expo, which is set for Friday, Sept. 26, at the Educational Service Center in Oakley, a board certified music therapist will present "Drumming for Health and Wellness." JoAnn Jordan, who works with the Sterling House of Hays, an assisted living center, will bring her traveling drums and offer conference participants hands-on experience with this unique, enjoyable and beneficial activity. She says that her drumming sessions always produce "lots of laughter," which she says is also beneficial as well as fun.

Full Circle... an Aging Expo runs from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., and will explore some of the latest news and ideas on aging, lifestyle, health, and making important life decisions.

The cost for advance registration is $25 per person or $40 for two family members, and the fee includes lunch, snacks and drinks, and all session handouts. Registration at the door will be $35, and organizers cannot guarantee a meal for those registering the day of the conference.

Among the other conference sessions are one on animal-assisted therapy featuring Deb Sellers and her trained dog "Jeb." She will help participants understand the nature of the human-animal bond, and know more about the need for trained service dogs for the disabled. "Jeb," an 11-year-old Golden Labrador mix, will be on hand to interact with Expo participants. Sellers is an assistant professor and extension specialist in adult development and aging, School of Family Studies and Human Services, K-State Research and Extension. She is also associated with Canine Companions for Independence.

Connie Hoch, an extension associate for the Kansas PRIDE Program, which assists communities in identifying what they would like to preserve, create or improve in the future, will be presenting a session on "Attitude and Aging." According to Connie, "You may not be as young as you feel, but research has found that a positive attitude and laughter may help and actually delay the aging process."

Conference sessions will cover a variety of other topics, including physical fitness, estate planning, funerals, bequeathing keepsakes, living wills and other advance directives, and other "surprise" topics to be announced. Dr. Jeffrey Burnett, a faculty member in the Department of Health and Human Performance at Fort Hays State University, is the keynote speaker. He will also present a session titled "Sit and Be Fit," which looks at how to remain physically fit even if walking is not or cannot be your main focus for fitness and exercise.

Watch for more information on speakers and conference session details in The Telegram as the date approaches.

To register in advance, contact Elizabeth Curry at the Northwest Area K-State Research and Extension Office in Colby, (785) 462-6281. For more information contact your local K-State Research and Extension Office or e-mail twwatts@oznet.ksu.edu. Brochures and registration forms are available.
