

Blown away

Thanks to very strong winds late last week, one of the front windows at the Hidden Dragon restaurant was blown out of its frame and broken out. Installers from Norton Glass Company spent Friday morning preparing the space for a new window to be installed at the restaurant.

Next week is school bus safety week

While carpooling is a common practice in many communities, a school bus is the safest way for children to get to school. Fatal crashes involving school bus occupants are extremely rare events, even though school buses serve children daily in nearly every community.

Getting to and from the bus is actually more dangerous than riding the bus itself. In the United States, an average of 13 school-age pedestrians die in school transportation-related traffic crashes each year. This means that more than twice as many children were killed while getting on or off the bus than while riding it.

Oct. 17-21 is National School Bus Safety Week, making it a good time to teach children how to stay safer around school buses.

Cherie Sage, State Director of Safe Kids Kansas says, "To be sure the bus driver can see them, young children should take at least five giant steps away from the bus while entering or exiting the bus. Older kids who must cross the street should look at the bus driver for an 'OK' sign before crossing in front of the bus."

Remind your child to stay within the bus driver's sight," says Sage.

Here are some school bus safety tips that all children should know:

- Arrive at the bus stop five minutes early.

- While waiting for the bus, stay in a safe place away from the street. Stand at least five giant steps away from the edge of the road.

- Wait until the bus stops, the door opens and the driver says it's okay before stepping onto the bus.

- Be careful that clothing with drawstrings and book bags with straps or dangling objects do not get caught in the handrail or door when exiting the bus.

- If something falls under or near the bus, tell the driver. Never try to pick it up yourself!
- When you get on or off the bus, look for the bus safety lights and make sure they are flashing.

- Be alert to traffic. When you get on or off the bus, look left, right, left before you enter or cross the street.

- Stay in your seat and sit quietly so that the driver is not distracted.

- Some school buses now have seat belts. If you have seat belts on your school bus, be sure to learn to use the seat belt correctly.

"School buses are, by far, the safest way for kids of all ages to get to and from school," adds Sage. "School buses are designed with safety features no other vehicles have. The padded, high-backed seats on school buses are close together to create protective compartments, like egg cartons."

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, the rate of crash-related fatalities on school buses is 0.2 per million miles traveled, compared to 1.5 for cars.

In Kansas, it is against the law to pass a stopped school bus from either direction when the stop arm is extended. National School Bus Safety Week is held every year in the third week of October and led by the National Association for Pupil Transportation. Bob Hobbs - Kearney, Neb.

Orthopedic care you can believe in.

"After a while, things in our body kind of wear out. My doctor and I decided I needed a hip replacement."

"Our family has confidence in Good Samaritan Hospital's medical staff, so we wouldn't have considered going anywhere else for the surgery. After a reasonable healing period, I was doing everything I did before the surgery, including bicycling and skiing."

"My care was excellent. I believe in Good Samaritan Hospital."
