Big earth moving machines join the bulldozer at work

By Melinda Basnett

Dirt work has begun to build the Bird City Dairy. A bulldozer has been a curious site along highway 36 near County Road 32 east of Bird City for the last couple of weeks. Now the dozer has been joined by many large earth moving machines from Sporer Land Development in Oakley.

Last week a producer meeting was held to fill the feed needs of the dairy. Mike McCarty was on hand to meet with approximately 65 of the area's producers. He answered questions for the group as well as met with individuals.

Needs include corn silage, alfalfa hay in dairy quality as well as dry cow quality, wheat straw, and dry corn. Quality requirements and delivery and term contracts were discussed. They will also consider wheatlage, triticale, and sorghum silage as other possible forage options.

A September 1 beginning milking date is still planned.

"Housing for dairy employees is still needed," Bird City Century II Director Cathy Domsch said.
