He was a teacher of literature and drama at several schools in his career: The Phillips Exeter Academy, in New Hampshire; Isidore Newman School, in New Orleans; and Illinois Mathematics and Science Academy.

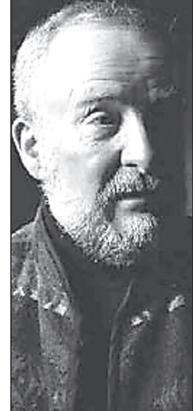

> He has directed a number of plays, performed in many theatre productions, and sung with the New Orleans Symphony Chorus and the Renaissance Chorus of St Andrews University, Scotland. He is a member of the International Network of Biblical Storytellers. He has been a summer fellow of the National Endowment for the Humanities, a teacher fellow at St Andrews University, and a Klingenstein fellow at Columbia University.

Perhaps a key to the dedication Mr. McWilliams has to his work can be found in the mission statement of Phillips Exeter Academy. John Phillips, the founder of the Academy, defined its mission more than two centuries ago. "Above all, it is expected that the attention of instructors to the disposition of the minds and morals of the youth under their charge will exceed every other care; well considering that though goodness without knowledge is weak and feeble, yet knowledge without goodness is dangerous, and that both united form the noblest character, and lay the surest foundation of usefulness to mankind.'
