Walkers raise $1,000

The seventh Northeast Colorado CROP Walk was held in Idalia on Sept. 8. There were 20 walkers and they raised over $1,000 to support hunger relief projects around the world through Church World Service, the largest Christian ecumenical mission organization in the United States.

The CROP effort to combat hunger was started by American farmers, following World II, who sent commodities directly to war torn Europe. Every year over 3,000 CROP walks in the United States raise over $10 million.
