Band shell work in Sawhill Park has finally begun

By Amanda Miller amiller@nwkansas.com

The band shell in Sawhill Park is receiving some much needed renovations. After years of work to get funding for the project, the sound of jack hammers was heard throughout the city last week. Bringing the amphitheater back to life will help preserve and promote a unique treasure in the community.

The band shell was built during hard times in the 1930's. During the Depression, dust storms and crop failures shaped the lives in Cheyenne County. The hard times meant an absence of luxury or frills.
