Wilkinson and Denny married

Lori Renee Wilkinson and James Justin Denny were married June 1, 2001, at St. Isidore's Catholic Student Center in Manhattan. Fr. Keith Weber officiated the double-ring ceremony. Parents of the couple are Greg and Cheryl Wilkinson of McDonald, and Karla Denny and Charles Denny both of Colby. Grandparents of the couple are Pat Skolout of Atwood, Kenny and Phyllis Wilkinson of McDonald, Billye Scheonberger of Atwood and Lucille Denny of Colby.

The bride selected a white Italian matte, satin gown. The sleeveless, drop waist bodice with a V-neckline was accented with a roping of seed pearls, sequins and embroidery. The waistline was accented with a trim, covered with scrolls of seed pearls and sequins. The back waistline was centered with a small bow. The chapel length train, was bordered with the same trim that accented the waistline. Her white fingertip veil was attached to a silver tiara inlaid with rhinestones and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of soft yellow, pink, and white roses with sprays of white statice within it.

Jamie Harris attended her sister as matron of honor. Kristy Barry, sister of the groom, was a bridesmaid. They wore light violet, sleeveless, princess style dresses, and carried yellow and pink long stemmed roses.

Brian Ruda, cousin of the groom, served as best man. Ken Barry, brother-in-law of groom, was a groomsman.

Ushers were Shawn Wilkinson, brother of the bride, and Tyler Buford. Soloist and pianist, was Frank Schmeidler. He is the director of worship at St. Isidore's church. For the seating of the parents and grandparents he played Arioso. For communion he sang You are Mine. Mandi Schmidt served as lector for the readings.

Guestbook attendant was Rachel Wilson, cousin of the bride. Kayla and Haley McCain, cousins of the bride, distributed the programs to the guests.

Distributing the bubbles after the ceremony were Isabella and Mariah Skolout, also cousins of the bride.

A reception, dinner and dance were held at The Columbian Theatre in Wamego. Reception table attendants were Canda Orten, Kelly Antholz, and Crystal Cook, cousin of the bride. The cake was baked and decorated by Thelma Johnson of Colby, friend of the groom's family.

Lori and J.J. are making their home in Colby.

Woman finds Mr. Wonderful, not Mr. Right

DEAR ABBY: I just turned 21 and am about to graduate from college. I've been dating "Monroe," a wonderful guy who treats me like a queen. We laugh together and have a great time, and he seems to really respect me.

My family adores Monroe. So does everyone else who knows him. My problem is that I'm just not head-over-heels in love with him, and I can't figure out why.

Actually, I've been interested in another guy, "Ruben," for more than two years, but we've always been just friends. Last night I found the nerve to level with Ruben about how I feel. (He has a girlfriend, but I don't care.)

Ruben said he's always been interested in me, too, but since we're both dating other people, it's really not an option. In fact, he came right out and said he's happy with his girlfriend right now. I'm still crazy about him, but I guess that's a bad idea since he has a girlfriend.

What should I do, Abby? Stick with Monroe (Mr. Wonderful) and pray I'll fall in love with him, or wait it out for Ruben (Mr. Dream Man)?

TOTALLY CONFUSED
DEAR CONFUSED: Monroe may be "Mr. Wonderful," but he's not the one for you. Rather than trying to force yourself to fall in love with him, the honorable thing would be to level with him so he can find a girl who can love him without reservation.

If Ruben was seriously interested in you, he wouldn't be telling you how happy he is with his girlfriend — so don't hold your breath waiting for him to come around.

The smartest thing you could do is to get back into circulation, because you haven't met "Mr. Right" yet.

DEAR ABBY: One night I was in a hotel room and browsing through a magazine. In it was an article about Finch College for Women in New York City. The school is no longer in existence, but I believe their maxims are timeless. If you agree, perhaps you will share them with your readers.

ABBY FAN IN CALIFORNIA
DEAR FAN: I do agree. They are thought-provoking and certainly worth sharing — even though the Finch may have flown:

Finch School Maxims

(1) Believing in people usually brings out the best in them.

(2) There is always another side; suspend judgment.

(3) There is always a solution to every problem. Do not waste time on self-pity.

(4) Be considerate. Your actions affect others, and other people's feelings are just like your own.

(5) Be kind. Remember that other people are as intuitive as you are, and judge you just as you do them.

(6) Be sincere. In the long run everyone will find you out and judge you by your true self and not by your pretensions.

(7) Snobbishness of any kind is a sign of limitation.

(8) Remember that recreation must be to re-create for work.

(9) Remember that you must be worthy and capable of love to be able to give or to keep it.

(10) Remember that you have a soul just as you have a body and a social self. Do not starve it.

Dear Abby is written by Pauline Phillips and daughter Jeanne Phillips.

Rous and Staats vows exchanged

The bride's attendants were Charell Rous and Cierra Rous, daughters of the bride, and Chanelle Staats, daughter of the groom. Collin Rous, son of the bride, was ringbearer.

The bride is a graduate of Marian High School and attended Fort Hays State University in Hays. She is an insurance agent.

The groom graduated from Garden City High School and Garden City Community College in Garden City, and Fort Hays State University in Hays. He is a managing partner with Adams, Brown, Beran and Ball, Chtd., Colby.
