The Brewster Lady Bulldogs opened the 2002 volleyball schedule with a 3-0 showing at the Grinnell Quad tournament last Friday, beating Grinnell 15-10, 9-15, and 15-13; Wheatland 15-8 and 15-11; and Triplains 15-9 and 15-10.

"I was very pleased with our performance at our first quad," said coach Lynda McKee.

"We had good teamwork, floor movement, and communication."

Sophomore Andrea Horney led the Bulldog attack with 13 kills. Senior Alicia Collett and freshman Jalyn Reid had 7 kills, freshman Caitlan Rush and senior Sara Luckert each had 6 kills, and senior Ashley Carpenter had 4 kills.

Caitlan Rush, with 15 assists, and Jalyn Reid, with 10, led the Bulldogs setters.

The Lady Bulldogs showed poise on the court, leading Coach McKee to comment, "On the occasions when we did trail an opponent, we never panicked."

"We played with confidence and slowly worked our way back into the game."

The Brewster volleyball team played in the Healy tournament on Saturday, Sept. 7. Those results will be published as soon as they are available.

Trojans 3-2 at Dodge City tourney

The Colby Trojan softball played in the Dodge City tournament last weekend, and went 3-2. Coach Carl Adams said "Overall, a good performance."

"We know the things that we need to work on now to get to where we need to be for the spring. This year we have a very quick team that is capable of scoring lots of runs. We need to play solid defense and make the average play if we are going to achieve our goal of winning the Region and the Jayhawk West."

Sampras, Agassi, pass on Davis Cup

NEW YORK (AP) — The all-American U.S. Open final between Pete Sampras and Andre Agassi took enough out of both players to keep them off the Davis Cup team.

Once the United States' top two players passed on the chance, captain Pat McEnroe chose Andy Roddick, James Blake, Todd Martin and Mardy Fish to play France at Roland Garros, home of the French Open, next week.

Chiefs to place momento in their locker room

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A small replica of a football found among the debris of the World Trade Center will take an honored place on Wednesday in the locker room of the Kansas City Chiefs.

"We have a very significant item that we're going to highlight in our locker room and highlight with our football team," Chiefs coach Dick Vermeil said Tuesday, on the eve of the first anniversary of the terrorist attacks on New York and Washington.

The item was found in the debris from the North Tower and bears the Chiefs logo.

"It was on a treadmill," Vermeil said. "It's a small Kansas City Chiefs carved football, gold and red, that's going to be on a trophy case. I understand it was on the 115th floor."

Vermeil said a New York policeman found the item while looking through debris.

"He took it off and looked at it and thought about it for a day or two and said, 'You know, the Kansas City Chiefs might like to know that somebody in that building was a Chiefs fan.'"

The Chiefs are hoping to learn who owned it.

"We've gone so far as to find out if that person might be identified, who was the Kansas City Chiefs fan on the 115th floor.

"This is going to be a symbol for our football team the whole year," Vermeil said.

Team spokesman Bob Moore said someone who worked in the North Tower is checking for the Chiefs to see if the owner can be identified.

"He thinks he knows who it is. He thinks he's seen it on his desk. But it's speculation," Moore said.

On the first weekend of NFL games following the Sept. 11 attacks, the Chiefs played host to the New York Giants, the team closest to ground zero. The Giants' players had actually been able to see smoke rising from the disaster scene from their practice field.

At the game, Chiefs fans contributed more than $225,000 to a relief fund for victims and their families.

Their contributions were then matched by Chiefs players and staff and the team's owner, Lamar Hunt.

The usually hostile Arrowhead Stadium crowd even cheered the Giants players as they ran onto the field.

Many held up signs saying, "KC loves NY."

After the game, the Giants took out a full-page ad in the Kansas City Star thanking the fans for their warm reception.

"We are very proud of our fans who stood up and initiated that," said Carl Peterson, Chiefs president. Peterson said the Chiefs will also have in their locker room a hat from a Kansas City firefighter.

"You all know what a great job our fans did saluting the New York Giants," Peterson said. "Those kind of things will all be remembered."

NBA star Webber denies he lied

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Chris Webber, making his first public statement since being indicted on federal charges, said he did not lie to a grand jury and that he tried to help prosecutors in their case against a University of Michigan booster.

The All-Star forward was indicted Monday in Detroit on charges he lied about his dealings with Ed Martin, who admits lending the NBA star $280,000 while he was still an amateur. Martin also admitted lending money to other Michigan basketball players.
