Anatomy of Greedreviewed; many visit Fairview Estates

Larry Barrett gave a very interesting review of the book "Anatomy of Greed—the Unshredded Truth from an Enron Insider" written by Brian Cruver on Thursday afternoon.

Cruver worked at Enron in 2001 so had first hand knowledge of the organization. It had started out with two pipe line manufacturers who joined forces and then grew by leaps and bounds to the giant company called Enron. with interests in many different fields of industry. Then something happened and they declared bankruptcy. The top executives ended up with riches estimated in the billions but many of the stockholders lost all their savings.

After Larry finished his report, the group held quite a discussion but most agreed that it is hard to understand. We thank Larry for his good report and hope he will come again.

Earlier in the week, guests of Irene Kehlbeck at Fairview Estates were her daughter and husband, Marilyn and Everett Feltham of River Ranch, Florida.

Esther Wieland attended the St. Annes Circle of her church at the home of Frances Bremenkamp Wednesday afternoon. Five (Grady) women, Pat Embree, Carmelita Calhoun, Mary McNutt, Sarah Jane Barrett and Mary B. Grady enjoyed lunch together at the Village Inn on Friday noon.

The Brewster Bridge Club met here last Wednesday afternoon with the Crumbakers.

Guests of Lula Thieler Saturday afternoon were Lewis and Frances Black, JoAnn Miller of Colby, her daughter Gina Miller of Hays and Tilyn Bell of McDonald. Tilyn is my great-granddaughter

Several residents have been playing card games here on these cold winter days.

Pinochle and Rummykub are two games that are played.
