Collecting could be mental illness

DEAR ABBY: "Living Like a Hermit in California" complained about her husband's unusual collecting behavior. "He owns 24 cars," she wrote. "None of them run; they just sit and rot. He buys old airplanes although he doesn't know how to fly and they, too, sit rusting away. He also collects cardboard boxes and anything in bulk." You suggested she contact a lawyer and get her husband a psychiatric evaluation.

His hoarding sounds like obsessive-compulsive disorder to me. I have depression and, during my worst times, I have voraciously collected metal washers. I found it soothing to have something to concentrate on besides my problems. The quality of my collection was a substitute for real accomplishment.

The fact that "Living's" husband is also withdrawn leads me to suspect that he has depression, OCD or a similar psychiatric problem. I got help for mine, and I feel much better. Her husband might never be normal, but a good place to start would be sympathy, patience and a caring doctor.

-OHIO HOARDER DEAR OHIO: I advised "Living Like a Hermit in California" to consult a lawyer because she said her husband had moved them out of a house into a trailer and had spent all their assets on his "hobby." I agree that he may be mentally ill. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Living Like a Hermit" had a familiar ring. My neighbor exhibited similar behavior and was diagnosed with manic depression. When she was up, she collected: when she was down she withdrew from the world. Roger may be more than "eccentric"; he may suffer from a mental illness.

DEARABBY: Tell that woman to get off her duff, learn more about her husband's collection and then get on eBay!

There are people rebuilding old cars who have to order custom parts when none are available. And in name is "Pearl." I just found out that California, the movie business is always looking for props.

One studio rented my former father-in-law's car while shooting a am a little scared. Please answer movie about the Kennedy assassination in Dallas. They asked for permission to paint the car black. He said, "Sure, as long as you paint it white again before you return it." And they did!

- NANCY IN HOUSTON DEAR NANCY: I love your idea about turning her husband's "compulsion" into an income stream. They could use the money.

DEAR ABBY: "Living's" husband appears to have OCD. One of the manifestations of OCD can be saving things for the sake of saving them. And the tendency to avoid talking may possibly be a symptom of an autism spectrum disorder. These two disorders can coexist. I should know, as they run in our family.

There are therapies and medications that can help him. Please urge "Living" to educate herself about these disorders and try to get her husband evaluated. -

NANETTE for suggesting it. An excellent Phillips. Write Dear Abby at www.place to start would be NAMI, the DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, National Alliance for the Mentally Los Angeles, Calif. 90069.

> DEAR ABBY: I'm 14 and my I might have chlamydia. I really like this guy and I need to know if I should tell him. What should I do? I soon.

> - NEEDS TO KNOW DEAR NEEDS TO KNOW: You should be examined by a doctor right away. If you do indeed have chlamydia, your partner must be notified so he can also be treated.

> Ask your mother to schedule an appointment for you. If you cannot talk to her about this, then call the county health department and ask for the location of the nearest clinic where you can be treated confidentially. DO NOT PUT IT OFF. If you have chlamydia and aren't treated, it could cause fertility problems for you in the future.

> Since you are sexually active, it is important that you learn to protect yourself against an unwanted pregnancy and sexually transmitted diseases so that you are not reinfected or infect others.

Editor's note: Dear Abby is written by Abigail Van Buren, also known as Jeanne Phillips, and was DEAR NANETTE: Thank you founded by her mother, Pauline

Opening lead — queen of spades.

Triumph of Mind Over Matter

One important trait of a good declarer is the ability to adapt to new developments as they occur.

Consider this deal where North-South reached an excellent slam in diamonds. Declarer won the spade lead with the king and got a rude jolt when West discarded a spade on the ace of diamonds at trick two. With a trump loser now certain, South had to avoid a heart loser.

This could be achieved if the clubs behaved, permitting dummy's heart loser to be discarded on South's fourth club.

Accordingly, declarer cashed the diamond king, club ace and spade ace, discarding a heart.

Then, before reverting to clubs, he ruffed dummy's last spade, a farsighted play designed to give himself an additional chance if the jack of clubs did not fall.

When South next played the K-Q of clubs, East declined to ruff, discarding a heart instead.

South then trumped the club ten in dummy, East again refusing to ruff and discarding another heart.

However, this merely postponed the inevitable. Declarer now led a diamond, forcing East to win with the queen and either yield a ruff-and-discard or lead a heart from his king. Either way, the slam was in the bag.

Observe that if declarer had not ruffed dummy's low spade before playing the K-Q of clubs, East could have ruffed the queen, exited with a spade and waited for his king of hearts to take the setting trick. Tomorrow: True-or-false quiz.
