Methodist women meet pledge goals

Roberta Luckert reported on the 50th Annual Turkey Supper held last month that was attended by more than 260 with free-will donations being generous. This made it possible for the unit to meet our pledge to missions and to also give an additional amount to the district pledge.

That report and others was discussed at the regular meeting of the Brewster United Methodist Women was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church on Monday, Nov. 15, with eight members attending.

Eva Lou gave a report from the Response magazine.

In the absence of the president, Doris Mayer, who is recovering from knee surgery, the business meeting was conducted by Eva Lou Selby. She opened the meeting with a litany of the United Methodist Women's Pledge that Bonnie Reid had recently gotten when she attended part of the Hays District Annual meeting in WaKeeney, Saturday, Oct. 23.

Bonnie Reid, program leader, had each one give their poem or scripture reading on "Thanks." Joyce Crabtree shared poems written by her daughter, Mary; and Nadine Kammer shared a poem, "Thanksgiving Day" written by her granddaughter, Sarah Kammar, fifth grade, Silver City, N.M.

Bonnie Reid then presented the program: World Thank Offering Service — Gratitude and Service. This was a program about the work of the Deaconesses in the United Methodist Church. In addition to the members already mentioned, others also taking part was: Roberta Luckert, Colleen Rall, Wanda Fulwider and Sue Randolph.

The program was climaxed with a skit, "Prayer for UMW," presented by Bonnie Reid as a United Methodist Women member and Joyce Crabtree as an angel.

This reminded all of us ladies how important we all are in this organization and the United Methodist Church. Luckert and Crabtree served a delicious pumpkin dessert.

'Bob-o-links' subject of Shakespeare program

Shakespeare Club met at the home of Kathy Calliham on Friday, Nov. 12. The program by Delores Ary was about the Bob-o-links, the campaign quartet she sang in for Bob Dole in 1960 and also about the dedication of the Dole Institute of Politics in Lawrence in July of 2003.

She told about how Bob Dole, who was running for the first time for U.S. Congressman, and the quartet traveled with other Russell people to all the counties in the district.

The Russell women joined in for part of the singing on fun songs with campaign words while handing out Dole pineapple juice. The quartet also sang four-part harmony songs and performed a four-piano concert in Lucas for the campaign.

The dedication of the Dole Institute of Politics was a four-day event paying tribute to the life of Bob Dole as well as other World War II veterans.

Billed as "the Greatest Generation's Greatest Celebration" events culminated with the 80th birthday of Bob Dole.

Dignitaries attending besides Dole and his wife, Sen. Elizabeth Dole were: former President Jimmy Carter, former national candidates George McGovern and Jack Kemp, former New York Mayor Rudy Giuliani and NBC anchor Tom Brokaw. Also Nancy Kasselbaum Baker, Howard Baker, Condoleezza Rice, present day senators including John McCain, Sen. Sam Brownback and others. Many WWII Medal of Honor recipients attended as well. The Bob-o-link quartet reunited at this event.
