and nine other rivals.

With no Triple Crown at stake, racing fans had to settle for watching the locomotive-like power of an amazing colt who averted disaster by a whisker last month at Pimlico when he tangled with another horse and was nearly knocked to his knees.

Rose held on with all his might in that ride: this time, it was smooth sailing.

"He should be a Triple Crown winner, but I messed up," in the Derby, Rose said, referring to Afleet Alex's third-place finish at Alex burst through and stormed into Churchill Downs, where he was beaten by two long shots.

But two out of three ain't bad, with Afleet Alex becoming just the 11th thoroughbred to win the Preakness and Belmont after running in the Derby. Among the elite four of the previous six races produced huge payoffs. Last year, Birdstone spoiled Smarty Jones' Triple Crown try and returned $74 for a $2 win ticket. In 2002, Sarava Rafael Bejarano, paid $8.20 and won and paid $142.50.

Afleet Alex dropped back early as long shot Pinpoint towed the field through a moderate pace. Giacomo, with Mike Smith aboard, was right off the leaders and made his move on the final sweeping turn at Belmont Park. But just when it looked as though the Derby winner was going to roll to victory, Afleet the lead.

Giacomo never mounted another threat and faded in the stretch, while trainer Nick Zito finally hit the board in this year's Triple Crown series with Andromeda's Hero. It was Zito's sixth runner-up finish in
