

Wesleyan Church in Colby begins '40 Days of Community'

Colby Wesleyan Church is participating in a campaign that started Sunday that involves the church and community — 40 Days of Community, which is the next step after 40 Days of Purpose.

Pastor Gene Rothfuss, with the Colby Wesleyan Church, is expecting to see excellent results from this, the church's second campaign.

"We saw over 100 adults participate in the 40 Days of Purpose, and we anticipate over 140 in this outreach."

"Our goal with this campaign is to reach out with God's love to our Colby community by "serving those who serve" — honoring teachers, nurses, police and firemen and others who serve our community."

Twenty thousand churches in America and 40 other nations have participated in "40 Days of Purpose," the spiritual growth campaign launched by one of America's largest churches, Saddleback Church; two years ago.

This fall hundreds of those churches will take step two in what Saddleback Church founding pastor Rick Warren is calling a "trilogy of campaigns" designed to move churches into implementing God's five purposes in the world.

Warren, author of the best-selling book The Purpose-Driven Life, which recently hit one hundred weeks on the New York Times Bestseller List, calls this follow-up campaign "40 Days of Community."

According to Saddleback Church, located in Orange County, Calif., and its affiliated leadership ministry, Purpose Driven, churches that participated in 40 Days of Purpose experienced an average attendance increase of 22 percent, an increase in giving of 20 percent and participation in small groups increased 102 percent.

"Many churches have reported that 40 Days of Purpose was the most transforming event in their congregation's history," Warren says. "Thousands of church leaders have written us saying, 'Our church will never be the same' and 'This is the greatest thing that has ever happened in our church.' One pastor wrote, 'I've seen more growth in our members and our church in 40 days than in the previous 13 years."

"But the biggest response by far has been 'What's next? Our church is growing; our people are excited. Everyone is on the same page and moving in the same direction. We have more energy and enthusiasm than we know what to do with. Now what? Where do we go from here?"

Warren says 40 Days of Community moves people from focusing on God's purposes in their personal lives - "What on earth am I here for?" - to focusing on God's purposes in their church and community - "What on earth are we here for?"

"The campaign will water the seeds of the purposes that were planted in people's lives through 40 Days of Purpose," Warren says. "It's a necessary step for maintaining healthy, balanced, purpose driven lives."

"The primary focus of this campaign is on fulfilling God's five purposes together by deepening the sense of community within the church and reaching out to the community around the church."

In The Purpose-Driven Life, which now has sold more than twenty million copies, Warren identifies the five purposes as worship, fellowship, discipleship, ministry and mission.

Developmental Services gets $50,000 grant for 'Kid-Link'

Developmental Services of Northwest Kansas, Inc. was the recipient of a $50,000 grant from the Dane G. Hansen Foundation on Oct. 3.

The grant award will be used to help the organization with the costs associated with the remodeling of its new Kid-Link building in Stockton, said Jerry Michaud, president of Developmental Services.

For many years, the developmental services Kid-link location has been limited in its space available to serve the children and families that utilize the program.

This new location gives KidLink much needed space for offices, physical and speech therapy, children's toys and equipment, as well as family and group interaction.

Additionally, Kid-Link will now be able to conduct developmental screenings from this new location.

Finding more suitable space for the Kid-Link program has been a priority for the past few years.

The organization used a multi-year approach through the acquisition and remodeling of a new location.

The final stage of this effort will be a "Make a Difference Day" project to be held on Oct. 22.

This special project will utilize community volunteers to join together for one day and remodel the building.

"We are deeply appreciative to the Hansen Foundation for their vital support of the services to people with disabilities. This new location will provide us with the necessary working environment to better serve children with disabilities and their families," Michaud said.

DSNWK's Kid-Link program provides early intervention services to children ages birth through two years in their natural living environment.

These services are for those who have a diagnosed disability, are delayed in one or more developmental areas or are at risk of developmental delay. Providing services in the home allows for a comfortable, natural response.

Some Kansas schools fail standard

TOPEKA (AP) — Nineteen more Kansas public schools have failed to meet federal education benchmarks that determine such things as whether students are allowed to transfer or receive tutoring, according to data released Tuesday by state education officials. Under the federal No Child Left Behind law, schools are required to make sufficient progress on improving test scores, graduation and attendance rates to achieve what is called "Adequate Yearly Progress."

The goal is to have all students proficient in math and reading by 2014.

Schools that fail to meet the standards could be forced to do everything from providing tutoring for students to reorganizing.

School officials said the number of schools failing to meet the benchmarks grew by 19 between the 2003-04 and 2004-05 school years to 121. That's about 9 percent of the total number of schools in the state.

"It is not surprising at all that we would see the number of schools not making AYP increase as performance targets continue to climb," said Alexa Posny, deputy commissioner of education at the Kansas State Department of Education. "We are fortunate in Kansas that many of our schools perform at a high level, so the increase in schools not making AYP from year to year has been very small."

Newly appointed Education

Commissioner Bob Corkins noted that state test scores showed that the achievement gap generally was narrowing between minority and non-minority students, as well as native and nonnative English speakers.

One of the most notable improvements was among fifth-graders for whom English is a second language.

'American Profile' features Oberlin woman's store

This week's edition of American Profile includes a feature story about the Dresser, a cooperative women's clothing store in Oberlin.

Karen Metcalf, manager of the store, said that on Friday she received a telephone call from Jean Clingersmith of New York. She had read the story and told Mrs. Metcalf that she wished they would start a similar store there, as she had trouble finding clothes that fit.

Since then, Mrs. Metcalf received calls Kentucky, Missouri, Oklahoma, Indiana, Virginia, several more from New York, Georgia, and Great Bend. Jody Betts also received an email from former Oberlin residents Dr. Bob and Nadine Simpson, now of Pleasant Hill, Tenn., who had read it.

The story, written by Marti Attotin, tells how area women decided to open the store in 1993. It is on page 4 of the magazine.
