Jayhawks put end to long losing streak

LAWRENCE — Amid the chaos of the on-field celebration, gray-haired men and women ran to the Kansas players and gave them a hug.

Watching their cherished Jayhawks put an end to their 36-year losing streak to Nebraska with a wild 40-15 victory in front of a record-breaking crowd had almost made them feel young again.

The Jayhawks scored seven different ways and had two 100-yard rushers and a 100-yard receiver for the first time since 1980 — when the streak was just a modest 11 years old.

Saturday's blowout was not just a win. It was a domination, the sort that Kansas had endured at the hands of their northern neighbors made them feel young again.

ever year since 1969.

Thousands of fans, paying no attention at all to beloved old broadcaster Max Falkenstein, stormed the field and attacked the goal posts.

Falkenstein got on the public address system in the waning minutes and urged fans to stay in their seats.

“I know this does not make me very popular in Memorial Stadium right now,” he said.

But the instant the gun sounded, people came pouring onto the field. More than a few looked older than the average student.

Then, in a Kansas tradition that goes back even further than the streak, the goal posts were carted off to nearby Potters Lake.

“They could have offered the students $100 each to stay off the field and it wouldn't have mattered,” said Sean Sullivan, a student from Wichita who was standing outside the Kansas locker room.

The previous six Kansas coaches before Mark Mangino had been winless against Nebraska. The Cornhuskers had been ruining Kansas' weekend once a year since the last year of the Lyndon Johnson administration.
