Stain removers could be something found at home

By Heloise

Dear Readers: What's worse than discovering you've stained your favorite outfit? Maybe it's thinking about taking it to the dry cleaner or just getting the stain out. Don't panic. You might have the perfect cleaning solution sitting in your cabinet right now.

First, read the care label. As long as it doesn't say "dry clean only," there's hope. Next, figure out what the stain is — grease (butter, candle wax, chocolate), protein (baby formula, blood, cheese, grass) or sugar (fruit, juice, candy). The right formula or cleaning product just might make that darn stain disappear. The solution for eliminating just about any stain is in my Handy Stain Guide for Clothing. Please send $4 and a long, self-addressed, stamped (58 cents) envelope to: Heloise/Stain, P.O. Box 795001, San Antonio, TX 78279-5001. It's best to start with safe and environmentally friendly products before moving on to stronger commercial products. Many of these are common household items, such as ammonia, vinegar, lemon, prewash spray and salt, which are usually on hand.

Remember, for grease and oil stains, treat them with warm or hot water, if safe for the fabric. For protein stains, use cold water, and always try to get to the stain as soon as possible! — Heloise.

P.S.: Dribble a little salad dressing on your shirt while eating out?

Colby bus stop to help with prescriptions

The low-income, uninsured and underinsured patients will soon have access to free or nearly free prescription medicines.

On Wednesday, Colby will be receiving the "Help is Here Express" bus brought by Jeff Gilbert from Pharmaceutical Research and Manufacturers of America (PhRMA). The bus will be at City Hall, 555 N. Franklin St., from 9-11 a.m. to help patients in need of programs that will make their medications affordable.

With offering more than 475 programs, the bus will be staffed by trained professionals and equipped with computer terminals and mobile phones to help patients find the one for them.

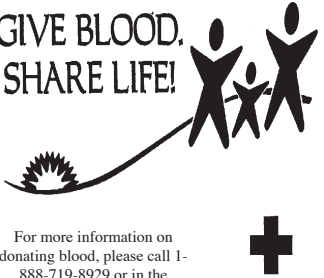

As part of the Partnership for Prescription Assistance (PPA), the "Help is Here Express" bus tour has helped more than 40,000 in Kansas, and nearly four million patients. The bus tour has raised awareness about these programs and has given assistance to all 50 states and more than 1,200 cities.

If those in need miss the bus, they can visit www.pparx.org, kids.pparx.org or call toll-free 1-888-4PPA-NOW.

For more information, contact Rochelle Dodge at (612) 325-3597.
