Man works for area Scouts

Stuchlik

Matt Stuchlik is all about the movement. The Scouting movement, that is.

Since starting his job June 1, Stuchlik, the 23-year-old district executive of the Buffalo Bill and Wheatland districts of the Coronado Area Council, says he has been doing all he can to familiarize himself with the people in the regions. This is no easy task, considering that he has 12 counties to cover for the Boy Scouts of America.

"I have been at it for four or five months," Stuchlik said. "I hope to build an awareness of Scouting. People want more Scouting presence here. I want to be here as much as I can."

Stuchlik, who lives in Hays, said he tries to be in the Buffalo District — Thomas, Rawlins, Cheyenne, Logan, Sherman and Wallace counties and part of Gove — two days a week. Wheatland covers Trego, Rooks, Osborne, Russell and Ellis counties and the east half of Gove.

"I'm trying to build relationships out here," he said, adding that he tries not to neglect any part of the community.

Stuchlik has made some headway in Colby when it comes to meeting with local business leaders. He said he has visited Farm Credit, Stramel Law Firm and Palace Drug Store recently, for example.

"I'm doing the best I can with time I have," he added.

The council, representing the Boy Scouts in all of northwest and northcentral Kansas, is trying to raise enough money to hire a part-time district executive who lives in the Buffalo District. This person would only serve the people out in the far west area, Stuchlik said.

But until they raise the necessary cash, Stuchlik will continue making his rounds. He said he wants to build a solid base in the district, so if a person is hired, he will have something to build off of.
