Week celebrates Catholic schools

This week is Catholic School Week and the Sacred Heart Catholic School has several activities planned to celebrate, said Kathy Elliott, secretary at the school.

A national event, Catholic Schools Week is sponsored by the National Catholic Educational Association. This year's theme is "Catholic Schools Celebrate Service."

Mrs. Sharon Shirley, pre-school teacher at the school, says the event is observed annually to celebrate the existence of Catholic schools. She feels they are especially fortunate, with a good, supportive environment from the local church, and that students' parents are pleased with the school, which is accredited by the North Central Association.

Mrs. Alice Ziegler, kindergarten teacher, says enrollment is growing. She enjoys working at the school, "it's a nice atmosphere, we can teach about our faith and academics all together."

Earlier this week, Crazy Hat day honored seminarians, and students were celebrated with a talent show and a pajama party.

Today, school volunteers were to be honored at lunch, and student's grandparents were invited to visit classrooms and eat lunch with the children. Tomorrow is Kansas Day, with the Knights of Columbus serving breakfast.

Friday, bus drivers, faculty and staff will be honored.

To top off the week will be a Saturday mass at 5:30 p.m., to be followed by a pizza supper with the students singing as the evening entertainment.
