

Accident kills two near Hays

HAYS (AP) — Two people are dead after a weekend crash on a bridge about 10 miles south of Hays. The Highway Patrol said both victims were passengers in cars that collided head-on on the Smoky Hill River Bridge on U.S. 183 Saturday night. They're identified as 25-year-old Matthew Cooksey of Oakley and 79-year-old Mary Lou Hall of Ness City. Cooksey was riding in a southbound vehicle driven by 18-year-old Kayde Sue Malcom of Gove. She and another passenger were injured and airlifted to a Wichita hospital. Hall's 81-year-old husband, Warren Hall, suffered undisclosed injuries. Troopers said the cars collided in the southbound lane of the bridge at 9:35 p.m. Saturday. An obituary for Cooksey is on Page 4 of today's paper.

Lives saved by safe driving in work zones

Work zones are dangerous places for both highway workers and motorists. More than 130 people have been killed and 6,100 injured in Kansas work zones in the past 10 years. "I can tell you from my own personal experience there is no worse feeling than learning one of our fellow employees has been hurt or killed within a work zone," said Assistant Secretary Jerry Younger of the Kansas Department of Transportation. "We need to work together to improve safety and reduce these tragedies."

Work zone safety awareness focuses on educating drivers on hazards encountered in work zones and ways to increase safety for highway workers and the public. "Work zone safety is a high priority for the Kansas Highway Patrol," said its superintendent, Col. Terry Maple. Of the nearly 1,300 crashes that took place in 2008 in Kansas work zones:

- There were no adverse weather conditions in 84 percent.
- The crashes happened in daylight 73 percent of the time.
- The top contributing circumstances were driver-related in 83 percent, with the main cause being inattention. Other causes included failure to yield, following too closely and driving too fast for conditions.
