- Heard a Phonathon will be held from Sunday, Nov. 1st through Thursday, Nov. 5. They will run from 6:30 p.m. until 9:30 p.m. During this time period students at the college will be calling former alumni and other interested parties to see who wants to donate money to the college. The money raised will be used for scholarships, said Schwanke.
- Discussed switching from regular textbooks to electronic books that could be read online. Schwanke said textbooks represent 26 percent of overall student costs. She said switching to electronic books could cut this cost in half.
- Heard Kreider say students from the college's nursing program would be giving flu shots to students and faculty from 7:30 p.m. to 1 p.m. on Wednesday,
- Waites said the Colby Community College rodeo raised about $40,000 this year. He said this is a slight increase from last year due to a slight increase
- · Approved Kreider researching the possibility of replacing five or six of the colleges vehicles that have over 200,000 miles on them. He said it would cost about $15,000 to replace each car.

Kreider said he thought the college could end up making money if they bought new vehicles.

of School Boards' Boardsmanship Academy. The academy consists of seminars and classes held throughout the year, and members earn points based on how many of these they attend.

 Grade school Principal Lance Krannawitter said that on Oct. 1 the school's lunch policy for kindergarten through second grade would be changing. Students in those grades can choose to bring their lunch, rather than eating school lunch, on a daily basis. Currently, students and parents have to choose whether or not the student will get the school lunch on a monthly ba-

Krannawitter also said his students had their first tornado drill last week, and the school would have two more during the year.

- High School Principal Don Krebs said the school was in the middle of the athletics classification process. There are 238 student athletes in grades seven through nine, and 233 in grades 10 through 12. This will probably put Colby in the middle of the 4A class, he said.
- The board approved Nancy Rundel and Jessica Hurd as cosponsors and head coaches of the Colby High School forensics team. Rundel and Hurd will be splitting coaching duties. The board also approved hiring Timothy Dahl as a custodian, Stacy Horinek and Audrielle Welsh as classroom aids at the high school and Rick Williams as the head baseball coach.

Soggy weather delays wheat planting across the Great Plains planting season how much of the nation's acreage will be planted into winter wheat or what effect the unusually wet fall may have on planting decisions.

"We are likely to see quite a bit of wheat planted in Kansas even though prices are terrible right now," said Mike Woolverton, a grain marketing economist at Kansas State University.

Many farmers across the Great Plains who had planned to cut wheat acreage because of low prices have changed their minds in the past six weeks to take advantage of good moisture conditions

"That is true in most of the Great Plains," Woolverton said. "Even Texas, where it has been just terribly dry, has been getting some thunderstorms out of all this activity and seen some moisture replenishment, and so I think we wheat than they might have otherwise '

Another unknown factor will be the impact on crop acreage of the 3.5 million-plus acres coming out this month from the Conservation Reserve Program, the program that pays farmers not to plant crops.

The majority of those former CRP acres are in the Great Plains wheat states.

Kansas has 371,000 acres coming out of CRP, and some farmers are plowing those acres and planting wheat this fall, Woolverton

Also coming into play are huge carry-over wheat stocks globally. The 2008 wheat crop of 682 million metric tons was the biggest ever grown in the world, Woolverton said. That was followed by the 2009 wheat harvest that was better than expected.

But Woolverton said that's not dissuading farmers from planting more wheat. If wheat prices sink cally with wheat prices low, but graze the crop come spring and replant something else.

"It doesn't make any sense logi-
