Museum to honor 'High Flying Eagles' at Friday reception

Colby High School Alumni are "High Flying" whether it is in their careers, their communities or their families. The Alumni Association is honoring 21 individuals who were nominated by classmates, friends and family to the High Flying Eagles: CHS Wall of Honor.

The list spans 69 years between the oldest, Max Eaton, and youngest, Tanya (Draper) Douthit. Eaton, at 101 years old, spent a lifetime in the field of engineering, even working on calculating the location for the landing site for the first manned space flight. Douthit, with a degree in social work, provides care and support for those suffering from domestic abuse.

The nominees for the wall of honor include a wide variety of individuals and types of contributions. Everyone is invited to attend a reception at 2 p.m. Friday, June 18, at the Prairie Museum of Art and History. The honorees are featured in the exhibit, High Flying Eagles: CHS Wall of Honor and will be recognized at the reception. There is no admission charge.
