The courts already have cut where they can.

"Statewide, the judicial branch had a $15.9 million shortfall just to make payroll at the beginning of the year," Keefover said. "We have eliminated temporary parttime employees, and eliminated the use of retired judges to help with the case load, but (even with the restored $5 million) it looks like we could still be $3.3 million short to make ends meet by the end of (fiscal year) 2010.

job, that position is not filled, which results in fewer people doing the same amount of work in an already-overloaded court system.

Judges, he noted, are taking a 5 percent cut in their pay along with other top state officials, but are exempt from the furloughs. The state Constitution protects them from being singled out for pay cuts, he said, but the across-the-board cuts apply. They still have to put in a full week's work, however. reduce the furloughs to four or five days, but officially, no one is saying.

The state's February receipts were $71 million short of predictions, Keefover said. Many hope some of that money will come back this month and next.

"They are thinking the most likely reason for the shortfall is that people filing income taxes wanted their money back from the state as soon as they could get it, so they filed early, and those owing tax are waiting

Aging conference set for April 23

Aging is a normal progression is for seniors, their families and in the life cycle, yet the process caregivers, she said. generates questions and concerns, said Tranda Watts, regional nutrition specialist for Kansas State University Research and Extension based in Colby.

Watts, who works with all ages in her job, is organizing the 2010 edition of "Full Circle ... an Aging Expo."

The one-day conference is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Friday, April 23, at the Colby United Methodist Church. Sponsors are the Extension Northwest Area Office and the Northwest Kansas Area Agency on Aging.

The spring date is a change, as past conferences have been held in the fall, said Watts, but committee hopes for better weather and er's Association. more daylight hours for travel.

"And, this year, we're allowing more time for questions," said Watts, adding that Dr. Tana Goering, the keynote speaker, calls her presentation "How Do I Know When a Trip to the Doctor is Necessary?'

Goering, a physician and Wichita television personality who emphasizes healthy living, also will offer tips for organizing personal information for a medical appointment. After her talk, people will choose three sessions on various topics:

· Elder Law, presented by Randy Clinkscales.

• Mind Aerobics, by Kathy Sikes, representing the Alzheim-

• Wolf in Sheep's Clothing, on The program on aging healthfully investment fraud, by Beth Victor.

• Extra Help, on getting financial aid in for prescription drugs, by Connie Bretz.

• When a Loved One Passes, by Maralyn Cooper.

 Mind-Body Exercises, by Tina Harris, a physical therapist.

Cost to attend the conference, $25 per person or $40 for two family members, includes lunch and a conference packet. The deadline is Thursday, April 15. Registration will be available at the door for $35, with no guarantee of lunch.

To register, go to www.northwest.ksu.edu and click on "Full Circle Brochure" or call the Colby office at (785) 462-6281.
