so proud," he said, "and is probably rejoicing in heaven that her family has been so honored." Hamill said he has seven wonderful children, all educated and with good jobs. Barbara, the oldest, lives in Denton, Texas; Albert, the Fort Collins area; Glenna lives in Arlington, Texas, and K.C. in Amarillo.

Hamill said he will be traveling Sept. 12-14 as a guest with Honor Flight of Northern Colorado, which so far has flown 594 veterans to Washington. Over all, Honor Flight Network's goal is to fly 25,000 World War II, Korea "My mother would have been and Vietnam veterans a year to see their memorials.

The group says it is a nonprofit organization created to honor America's veterans for all their sacrifices, and all trips are free to the veterans.

Their website, www.honor-Mike, Kevin and Amy all live in flight.org, says the group transports America's heros to Washington to visit and reflect at the memorials that have been erected in their honor.

damage to its vehicles during water contaminated with chrothe hail storm on July 12. It received a check from Employees Mutual Insurance for $21,206.

The insurance company will 1996 Mercury Villager that belongs to the recreation department. Mayor Ken Bieber said the vehicle is old and will not be repaired. Armstrong said the money will go into the recreation commission fund.

• Heard that the cost of the 2010 audit was $8,000 over the estimate. Armstrong said most of the extra costs came from auditing three projects: Money from the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act, the socalled stimulus bill, given to the city for a project to water the Colby Recreation ball fields, $3,350; loans to Embark Health, $3,350; and the water treatment plant on East Fourth Street that is an Environmental Protection Agency Superfund site, $5,300. The Superfund site treats mium, she said. It was set up about 10 years ago. The water became contaminated years ago when a chrome-plating comcover $1,040 for damage to a pany was dumping residue outside the building, Bieber said. The treated water is used in the city's water supply system.

· Discussed the possibility that the county commissioners may decide to quit paying for the tornado sirens in the city. County Commissioner Paul Steele said no decision had been made, but he said he felt he and his fellow commissioners had formed a consensus to stop covering the maintenance costs of the sirens.

He suggested installing a siren by the new pool before paving is begun. Steele added that the city should look at a map so it can be sure to put the sirens where everyone in town can hear them.
