Tribal dancers to perform in Oberlin

The Little Sun Drum and Dance Group will be performing in Oberlin on Saturday to help celebrate Oberlin's 125th anniversary, sponsored by the Oberlin Arts and Humanities Commission.

The dancers are members of the Northern Arapaho, Eastern Shoshone, Oglala and Hunkpapa Lakota tribes from the Wind River and Pine Ridge reservations of Wyoming and South Dakota. The group has been featured at Cheyenne Frontier Days the past two years.

in downtown Oberlin and will do two short presentations on the courthouse lawn.

A complete presentation will begin at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at The Gateway civic center, U.S. 36 and U.S. 83, where the dances will be narrated by the group's leader, Sandra Iron Cloud. The dances date from the mid-1800s to the present, she said, and all have a story.

The dancers come from all walks of life, the Mary Henzel (785) 470-0218. group says. Some are teachers, coaches, col-

The dancers will be in the parade at 10 a.m. lege students, high school and elementary or preschool students, tribal administrative assistants and secretaries or casino workers. They come from "pow-wow" and strong traditional families and many have been in the dance circle since they could walk.

Admission is by season ticket or $10 for adults, and $5 for students at the door.
