"This is a situation not unique to Norton County. Many counties do not have jail facilities and have inmates housed 30 miles away," said Sebelius. "I have no solution to the housing situation."

Sheriff Thomson addressed the court saying that with the construction, there is no way to segregate Mr. Zweygardt from other inmates.

"Also there is not a secure area for client and attorney conversation as there is no visitation room with the remodeling of the jail area," said Sheriff Thomson.

After consideration of the arguments presented, Judge Anderson denied the motion to move Zweygardt to Norton County.

The next scheduled court appearance for Zweygardt is May 6 for a preliminary hearing.

State legislators resume budget talks

From "BUDGET," Page 1

Both chambers have made significant spending cuts in an effort to create a budget that would have a positive ending balance on June 30, 2012.

Spending cuts are necessary to close a projected a budget shortfall that at one point in the session approached $500 million. Much of that gap represents the end of hundreds of millions of federal stimulus dollars used to prevent education and social service cuts.

Several hundred developmentally disabled Kansas residents and their advocates gathered outside the Statehouse to rally support for increased funding for services. Supporters said about 4,600 people are on waiting lists for services, and while $2 million in increased funding will reduce the list, more revenue is required to meet all needs.

PLEASANT GROVE, Ala. - Dozens of tornadoes ripped through the South, flattening homes and businesses and killing at least 248 people in six states in the deadliest outbreak in 40 years.

As day broke Thursday, people in hard-hit Alabama surveyed flattened, debris-strewn neighborhoods and told of pulling bodies from rubble after the storms passed Wednesday afternoon and evening.

"It happened so fast it was unbelievable," said Jerry Stewart, a 63-year-old retired firefighter who was picking through the remains of his son's wrecked home in Pleasant Grove, a suburb of Birmingham. "They said the storm was in Tuscaloosa and it would be here in 15 minutes. And before I knew it, it was here."

He and his wife, along with their daughter and two grandchildren, survived by hiding under their front porch. Friends down the street who did the same weren't so lucky - Stewart said he pulled out the bodies of two neighbors whose home was ripped off its foundation.

Alabama's state emergency management agency said it had confirmed 162 deaths, while there were 32 in Mississippi, 32 in Tennessee, 13 in Georgia, eight in Virginia and one in Kentucky. President Barack Obama said he would travel to Alabama on Friday ing at the hospital when the torto view damage and meet with the governor and families devastated by the storms. Obama has already expressed condolences by phone to Gov. Robert Bentley and approved his request for emergency federal assistance.

The National Weather Service's Storm Prediction Center in Norman, Okla., said it received 137 tornado reports into Wednesday night.

Some of the worst damage was in Tuscaloosa, a city of more than 83,000 that is home to the University of Alabama. Neighborhoods there were leveled by a massive tornado caught on video by a tower-mounted news camera that barreled through late Wednesday afternoon.

"When I looked back, I just saw trees and stuff coming by," said Mike Whitt, a resident at DCH Regional Medical Center who ran from the hospital's parking deck when the wind started swirling and he heard a roar.

On Thursday morning, he walked through the neighborhood next to the hospital, home to a mix of students and townspeople, looking at dozens of homes without roofs. Household items were scattered on the ground – a drum, running shoes, insulation, towels, and a shampoo bottle. Streets were impassable, the pavement strewn with trees, pieces of houses and cars with their windows blown out.

"We just did the best we could to get them out and get them stabilized and get them to help," he said. "I don't know what happened to them."

Back from an aerial tour Thursday morning, Tuscaloosa Mayor Walter Maddox said the tornado tore a streak of "utter destruction" through the city. There were at least 36 people dead in the city's police jurisdiction, and searches continue for the missing.

'We have neighborhoods that have been basically removed from the map," he said.

versity of Alabama as a command post.

University officials said there didn't appear to be significant damage on campus, and dozens of students and locals were staying at a 125-bed shelter in the campus recreation center.

The storm system spread destruction from Texas to New York, where dozens of roads were flooded or washed out. The governors of Alabama, Mississippi and
