Project for a calm day

LYNN CAMERON/Colby Community College
Woofter Construction crew members stood on top of the 140-foot tower last week preparing to install the 50-kilowatt wind turbine on the east side of the Colby Community College campus. Each blade is about 30 feet long. The turbine will provide electricity to Living Center Northeast; it is part of a $4.5 million project to reduce energy consumption. The turbine is projected to produce 193,000 kilowatt-hours in the next 12 months – about 54 percent of the needs at the residence hall. In addition, the project will provide internship opportunities for students.

Girls use CPR to save mom’s life

SHEBOYGAN, Wis. (AP) – Two girls saved a Sheboygan mother’s life by using CPR that one of them learned from watching the medical TV drama “Grey’s Anatomy.”
Kandace Seyferth, 36, was having trouble breathing and went upstairs to get her inhaler for a severe asthma attack, but collapsed and was unable to breath when she got back down to the bottom of the stairs Nov. 25.
Her 10-year-old daughter Madisyn Kestell called 911 and performed mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, while her 12-year-old friend, Katelynn Vreeke, pounded on her chest.
“Me and my mom watch the show every Thursday, and I learned it from there,” Kestell said.

The Sheboygan Press reports (<http://shebpr.es/smykbs>) that about four minutes later fire department personnel arrived to take her to a hospital.
“They (the firefighters and paramedics) pretty much said if Maddie didn’t do – remain calm and call 911 and do what she did – I wouldn’t even be here to talk about it,” Seyferth said.
Seyferth, who had been hospitalized earlier in the year for a severe case of pneumonia, developed asthma because of some lung damage due to her illness.
Fire Chief Jeff Hermann says the girls did what they were supposed to do and should be commended for their actions.
Seyferth said she is thankful her daughter acted so quickly.

Stolen Santa returned with $100 and note

UNIONVILLE, Ind. (AP) – A southern Indiana man has gotten an early Christmas gift: A 16-foot-tall inflatable Santa Claus stolen from his yard has been returned with $100 and a note of apology.
Jason McClaren tells The Herald-Times (<http://bit.ly/vPsMkQ>) that someone returned the deflated Santa to his Unionville yard early Saturday in a trash bag that also contained the money and note.
He says the anonymous note makes it clear the person who returned the Santa wasn’t the thief who took it and two 6-foot tall penguins. The penguin decorations are still missing.
The typed note states: “Returning your property is the right thing to do, and apologies for the thief who took it in the first place.”
McClaren says he plans to use the $100 to buy more decorations.
