New KU coach clearing house as he revitalizes football team

LAWRENCE — Charlie Weis is hoping turnover in the Kansas roster yields a turnaround on the field.

The first-year coach of the Jayhawks has stuck to his promise that guys who don't play by the rules will be gone, dismissing two more just this past week. Meanwhile, he's brought in three of his former players from Notre Dame to jumpstart the scuffling program.

It's been a whirlwind start to his tenure at Kansas, but Weis is confident the Jayhawks are headed in the right direction as Saturday's spring game approaches.

"I think you get one opportunity to set it right. You only get one chance," Weis said Tuesday afternoon. "You don't get a do-over. And I learned a long time ago, it's always easier to set that table right in the beginning."

In some ways, it's been more like clearing the table.

Weis started off in January by rattling off the names of 10 players who were no longer part of the team. Six of them were released by the program, including promising running back Darrian Miller and wide receiver Keeston Terry. Another player announced he was transferring while three others remained enrolled at the school but left the team.

That included quarterback Jordan Webb, who would have been a junior this season. Webb showed signs of being capable last season, throwing for 316 yards in a loss to Oklahoma State.

The changes kept coming as spring rolled around.

Defensive lineman Julian Green was dismissed for violating team rules. And Monday, linebacker Collin Garrett and defensive back Chris Robinson were let go for the same reason.

Junior running back James Sims, who is expected to be a key contributor this season, was suspended three games for violating team rules. He's participating in spring ball, but will be sitting on the bench when the season starts Sept. 1 against South Dakota State.

Weis said the most recent round of dismissals prompted a team meeting Monday, a sort of clear-the-air kind of heart-to-heart between the coaching staff and the players.

The word "responsibility" was an underlining theme.
