Selden veteran to recruit soldiers getting mailing labels with my name on them,” he said. “The organization became important to me and so I donated $100, but it wasn’t enough and I wanted to do more. That’s when I got information on being a recruiter. It’s important because there are so many people who have served, like my dad and uncle who were in the military, that others know nothing about.

“These people served our country and they deserve to be recognized.”

Another way Korte is working to promote the services of our American soldiers is to share information about the Registry and help the museum build its database.
He said veterans and active soldiers can register themselves, or can be honored by a family member or friend, by going online to www.armyhistory.org. Those who have trouble registering soldier profiles and photos or don’t have a computer, can contact him for help, he said.

Profiles are displayed online and at the museum located less than 30 minutes south of Washington D.C., in the national capital area on the grounds of Fort Belvoir, Va.
The free registry, said Korte, is available for service-men and -women of the United State’s Army, Army National Guard, Army Reserve, Army Air Corps and Army Air Forces. There is no cost to be included in the Registry, but there are options to become a sponsor of the museum.

For information about this giving option, contact Korte. In addition, there are costs and privileges associated with being a foundation member.
Interested people can receive application forms and further information regarding the foundation, the museum and the Registry by contacting Korte at (785) 269-7064 or at kortes7@yahoo.com; calling the foundation membership director Hoa McNabb in Arlington, Va., at (703) 562-4163 or by going online to www.armyhistory.org.

• Approved the resignation of eighth grade basketball coach Daren Organ, and employment recommendations for Anne Dreiling as a paraprofessional, Larry Hawkins as a bus driver, Terri Lynn Rogers in food service, Don Martin as a non-English paraprofessional and Katie Coulter as a half-time instructor and half-time paraprofessional.

• Approved supplemental contracts for Coulter as a women’s assistant basketball coach, Terrel Bruce as a men’s assistant basketball coach, Jon McKee as a women’s C-team basketball coach, Thomas Wieland as a men’s C-team basketball coach and Cole Garcia as an assistant high school wrestling coach after some discussion.
Athletic Director Larry Gabel said that an additional coach will be needed for the high school basketball program this year. Board member Brice Barton asked Gabel if the district activity fund would be able to pay for the coaches, since Gabel said that this fund is used to pay for a variety of expenses, such as equipment.

“I think we have to trust your recommendation,” Barton told Gabel, “but live and die by your recommendations.”
• Went into a closed session to evaluate Harrison’s performance.

uniforms and played its instruments while marching in the parade. Some instruments were even decked out in lights.
Others that made conversation as possible winners included American Implement for their John Deere sprayer with antlers, Colby Community College Student Government for their candy cane striped pickup, Steve Molstad’s 1928 Model A fire truck with over 300 feet of lights and the American Legion Riders for their clever use of red and green lights on their bike headlights.

People also enjoyed refreshments and free goodies during the parade. The First Baptist Church gave out cookies and tote bags. Hundreds of cups of hot cocoa were made by the College Drive Assembly of God Church. Sunflower Bank provided hot dogs and Stock Realty and Auction handed out light sticks.

Sanguinetti gave special thanks to volunteers who made the parade possible, including police assistance from officers of the Colby Police Department. The Pickin’ on the Plains Bluegrass committee offered use of their stage, which was set up by Bob McLemore.
The Colby Community Building provided the sound system and electricity was used from Berens’ law office.

Tina Harris offered use of her physical therapy business for registration and there were many others who volunteered their time and efforts to make the parade possible, said Sanguinetti.
“It’s so neat that we get so much participation,” said Mayor Adrian during the parade.

Kansas State, Oregon to meet in Fiesta Bowl

By John Marshall
AP College Football Writer

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. – Oregon and Kansas State were atop the Bowl Championship Series standings just two weeks ago, each needing two wins for a likely trip to the BCS championship.
Those plans were derailed quickly with a loss on the same day, but they ended up with a nice consolation prize: A trip to the desert to face each other in the Fiesta Bowl.
Nos. 4 and 5 in the BCS standings, two of the nation’s best offenses, a pair of Heisman Trophy contenders – yep, the Fiesta Bowl has done it again, pulling off a marquee match up for the second straight year.
The 2012 Fiesta Bowl was certainly a memorable one: Oklahoma State vs. Stanford, Nos. 3 and 4 in the BCS, dynamic teams with two of the nation’s best quarterbacks in Brandon Weeden and the Cardinal’s Andrew Luck.
The game matched the hype, with the Cowboys outlasting Stanford 41-38 in overtime, giving the Fiesta Bowl a much-needed boost after nearly losing its BCS status due to financial improprieties and a dud of a game in 2011.

This year’s game has the potential to one-up 2012.
Oregon (11-1) and its swarm-of-bees offense has been one of the nation’s best teams under coach Chip Kelly, reaching the BCS title game in 2011 and winning the Rose Bowl for the first time in 95 years last year.
This year, the Ducks are loaded with fleet-footed players, rolling up yards in big chunks, scoring in bunches.
They have one of the most dynamic players in the country in running back Kenjon Barner, a Heisman Trophy hopeful, and quarterback Marcus Mariota had no trouble handling the pressure of running Oregon’s potent attack as a freshman.
Oregon, No. 5 in the AP Top 25, finished the season second nationally with 50.8 points per game, fourth in total offense at 550 yards and will be making its fourth straight BCS bowl appearance. The Ducks also played at University of Phoenix Stadium when they lost to Auburn in the 2011 BCS title game.
“It’s an amazing challenge,” Kansas State coach Bill Snyder said. “They’re extremely talented and well-coached collectively. Offensively, they go faster than the speed of light, so to speak.”

Snyder hasn’t done too bad for himself in the Little Apple.
Orchestrator of what may be the biggest turnaround in college football history his first go-round in Manhattan, Snyder came out of retirement to re-energize K-State again in 2009 – in the stadium named after him, no less.
He led the Wildcats to the Pinstripe Bowl in 2010 and followed, after a 7-0 start, with a 10-win season and a trip to the 2011 Cotton Bowl.
This season, No. 7 Kansas State (11-1) opened some eyes by trouncing Miami in its second game and started to draw national attention by knocking off Oklahoma in Norman on Sept. 22. Behind the do-everything quarterback Collin Klein, another of the Heisman favorites, and a tough defense, the Wildcats kept piling up wins to become No. 1 in the BCS standings on Nov. 11 for the first time in school history.
Kansas State is playing in its second BCS bowl, with the 2004 Fiesta Bowl.
Originally scheduled to play each other this season before the game fell through, Kansas State and Oregon were atop the BCS rankings after defending national champion Alabama lost to Texas A&M on Nov. 10.
