

Colby High participates in Pink Zone

Colby High varsity girls basketball Coach Parker McKee and his players wore pink attire Tuesday to support the Pink Zone campaign for breast cancer awareness at the last home games of the season. All of the proceeds of the Pink Zone event, which included a silent auction and Pink Zone T-shirts, went to the Northwest Kansas Foundation for HOPE.

Colby High cheerleading Coach Lynn Carpenter (above) looked at items in the Pink Zone silent auction Tuesday during the basketball games. From left, Lexi Kraft (right), Alissa Bremenkamp, helped by Elaine Bremenkamp, and two high school students participated in the Pinkest Person contest Tuesday, and Alissa was given the title. She received a $10 gift card to Quiznos.
