

Colby man represents area at Edward Jones conference

Darryl G. Henry, Edward Jones representative in Colby, recently returned from the firm's 2013 Financial Advisor Leaders Conference, which recognizes who are among the leaders at the financial services firm.

Henry was one of 793 advisors - out of the firm's out of the firm's nearly 12,000 - who attended the conference, held in at the firm's St. Louis headquarters in May.

"Qualifying for this conference shows a tremendous amount of discipline, commitment and work ethic," says Alan Kindsvater, Edward Jones partner responsible for advanced branch raining and host of the conference.

Local woman gets leadership award for her work with Weight Watchers

Rebecca Vyzourek of Colby has received the Service Vision Rookie Leader of the Year Award from Weight Watchers International.

Rebecca Vyzourek

Vyzourek leads weight watchers meetings in the Colby, Oakley and Hoxie areas, helping members discuss healthy eating, incorporate activity and change behaviors in a supportive environment with their peers. "We are celebrating Weight Watchers' 50th anniversary, which makes this year's service award a very special one," said Sara Hornecker, territory manager for Weight Watchers. "I was honored to present the Rookie Leader of the Year award to Rebecca Vyzourek.

She consistently encourages her members to achieve their weight-loss goals while providing outstanding service ... and inspiring co-workers to do the same."

This annual recognition goes to one outstanding new leader in each region who embodies the philosophy of exceptional customer care, she said. It is meant to recognize the leader who strives to ensure members feel motivated to succeed, part of the group, cared for and well-informed.

Students from Northwest Kansas receive scholarships to Fort Hays State University

Several students from northwest Kansas have been awarded scholarships to Fort Hays State University.

This release contains only new awards, and not awards previously accepted and announced.

Remembering generations past

PHYLIS ZIEGELMEIER
Nash Ziegelmeier, son of Rosanna and Pete Ziegelmeier II, placed the flag in his Great-Grandma Helen's auxiliary flag holder at the Gem Cemetery on Memorial Day while several generations of his family looked on. They were continuing a tradition begun by Helen and Victor Ziegelmeier, Nash's great-grandparents, as far back as their kids remember.
