Kansas Law Enforcement Center graduates two new Colby officers

Two officers from around Colby graduated from the Kansas Law Enforcement Training Center on May 24 in the 223rd basic training class at the center, which is southwest of Yoder, near Hutchinson.

The center is a division of University of Kansas Continuing Education. The 52 graduates started training Feb. 18. They represented 41 city, county and state agencies from across Kansas.

Colby graduates were Chelston Ketting, a patrol officer with the Colby Police Department, and Jonathon Schroeder, a deputy with the Thomas County Sheriff's Office.

They got certificates of course completion from the center and Kansas law enforcement certification from the Kansas Commission on Peace Officers' Standards and Training, the state's law enforcement licensing authority. The course meets the state requirement for law enforcement training.

About 300 officers enroll annually in the 14-week basic-training program. The center is paid for out of docket fees from municipal and state courts.
