facilities and the chair lift. Replacement windows are estimated at $25,000, the museum estimates $10,000 for publicity and marketing and $18,000 for supplies and expenses for Party for the Pottys fund raiser.

The money raised by the campaign also will help pay for new agricultural programming and an exhibit on agriculture in this area.

The exhibit, "High and Dry: Agriculture on the High Plains," showcases over 100 years of photos and artifacts on 30 new graphic panels, said Taylor.

"Combined with the remodeling improvements in the

Cooper Barn," she said, "this new exhibit will help to enhance the barn's stature as a must-see destination for tourists and historians and as a venue for a wide variety of events.

The improvements will be unveiled at the Party for the Pottys on Saturday, Sept. 28. Additional donations are still being raised for the party and exhibit, said Taylor. She said she hopes the people of Thomas County will continue to support the Cooper Barn as an "over-exaggerated representation of the quaint family barn."

Anyone interested in supporting the campaign should contact Taylor at 460-4590.

This year, the commissioners budgeted $7,500 for student-loan payments to qualified individuals mov- the sales tax. The county does not get ing into Thomas County.

The resolution commits the county to the state-administered program for the next five years.

• Received 2012 tax reports from County Treasurer Donita Applebury. The reports included a total tax collection of $14,308,499, not including to keep all of the money it collects, instead distributing it to other entities such as school boards and township boards. The treasurer reported tax delinquencies, or unpaid taxes, of $201.068.

· Approved the treasurer's request to close her office Tuesday morning for state-required training to teach employees about a new system of tagging commercial vehicles.

• Were introduced to the new Extension agriculture agent, Kurt Sexton. Sexton, originally from Colorado, joined the Extension office this month, filling a long-vacant position.

• Set the pay for temporary transportation van drivers at $9 per hour.

 Approved a request from Rosalie Seemann to use the county's van to transport residents to Western Plains Art Association events outside the county. Seemann, a former county clerk, has volunteered to drive and will get the required county training. Approved paying bills for $47,172.

• Agreed to use a tentative 4 percent salary increase for discussion purposes. Some department heads want discretion on how to distribute salary increases but salary increases said.
