Where is the ring? Move over Charlie Chan

A cast of 18 Goodland area kids have been practicing for the production of "The Mysterious Case of the Missing Ring" since mid June.

The queen, Rachel Tomsic, is missing her ring, and the royal detectives — think Charlie Chan or Sherlock Holmes — are on the case. The ending has a twist to it.

The production is directed by Jessica Cole and Tina Goodwin. The cast has been practicing on Monday and Wednesday.

The show will be presented at 7 p.m. on Saturday and 2 p.m. on Sunday at the Goodland High School Auditorium by Little City Theater Productions. Cast members, all in third to seventh grade, include Tomsic, daughter of Rob and Lisa Tomsic; Chantel Coates, daughter of Rick and Michelle Coates; Drew House, son of Andrew and Gennifer

House; Jessica and Levi Klemm, children of Laurie and Ken Klemm; Savannah Bassett, daughter of Stuart and Kerry Basset; Jed Gray, son of Jeff and Tanya Gray; Braxton and Bracelyn Redlin, children of Chuck and Janet Redlin; Lauren Espinoza, daughter of Toni Espinoza; Ryleigh Paxton, son of Cameron and Lisa Paxton; Grace Cole, daughter of Bryce and Jessica Cole; Nolan Deeds, son of Jeff and Jill Deeds, Holton Witman, son of Travis and Angie Witman; Alex and Chloe Goodwin, children of Tina and Curtis Goodwin; Trace Waugh, daughter of James and Traci Waugh; and Brooke Lockhart, daughter of Scott and Lisa Lockhart.

There is no admission charge, but donations will be accepted.

People need to come to see the ending, said co-director Cole.

Junior high teacher goes to summer technology institute

Grant Junior High School math teacher Tanya Gray took part in a Discovery Education Network National Institute with 40 other teachers from across the country to learn about cutting-edge technology.

The institute was from Sunday, July 15, to Thursday, July 19, at Port Canaveral, Fla. National leaders in educational technology collaborated with teachers on projects. Participants created classroom-ready multimedia projects, learned new ways to incorporate digital storytelling into their lessons and heard briefings on the newest online technology, including Web 2.0 websites, podcasts, blogs and wikis.

"Participating in the DEN National Institute was eye opening," said Gray. "This forum made me excited not only about what Discovery has to offer, but also about the different technology and resources that are out there — whether it's Web 2.0, digital storytelling or just networking with colleagues from across the country. I'm looking forward to returning to school and sharing what I've learned with my students and colleagues."
