Emergency route signs posted on main streets

By Tom Betz

Responding to problems during the blizzards in December and January, the city commission approved an ordinance in April establishing emergency traffic routes and giving the city crews power to tow cars out of the way of plows.

Wayne Hill told the commissioners at the meeting on Oct. 15, that the new emergency route signs were all in place, and that he is hoping to remind the people about them before the first winter storm hits.

City Manager Wayne Hill told the commission the storms are not the only reason for establishing emergency routes.

"These are more than just for snow," he said. "Emergency routes would be important in case of a tornado, flooding, fires, chemical spills or other natural disasters we might face."

"Keeping the main routes open is important in any emergency. True, most of the problems we have seen come with the snow storms where we have parked, stalled and abandoned vehicles that caused problems."

The ordinance established a list of main streets around the city. In a traffic emergency declared by the city, vehicle owners would have two hours to get their cars off the street before the city can have them towed.

Hill said the Mayor, city manager, public works director or streets superintendent can declare an emergency, and that people would have to move their cars.

He said the publicity is to remind people about the emergency routes and the penalty if their cars are not moved when an emergency is declared.

The police can ticket an owner if their vehicle is in an emergency route during a declared emergency, with a fine up to $100 and or 30 days in jail. Also the owner will have to pay towing and storage charges before they could recover a car that had to be moved.

The list of emergency routes includes:

- Kansas Avenue from 17th north to First.
- Caldwell Avenue from 17th north to the airport.
- Center Avenue from 12th north to Eighth.
- Cherry Avenue from 17th south to business U.S. 24.
- Eighth Street east from K-27 to East-ridge.
- Ninth Street east from Center to Caldwell.
- 12th Street east from K-27 to Harrison.
- 17th Street east from Cattletrail to Cherry.
- First Street east from Kansas to Grand.
- Toelkes Avenue east and west.
- Maple Avenue east and west.
- Aspen Avenue from Maple to Second and Grand.
- Second and Grand west to Kansas.
- Arcade north from 18th to Second.
- 18th Street east and west.

City Commissioner Dave Daniels questioned Hill about the side streets, and what happens to people who are stuck.

"If they get stuck on a side street they will just get stuck," Hill said.

Mayor Rick Billinger said he felt the city should not ticket people who have a good reason to be out driving on the streets in an emergency even if they do not have four-wheel drive or chains.

Hill said that could be changed as the ordinance now says that in an emergency all traffic would be limited to four-wheel drive vehicles or those with chains.

Daniels said there are circumstances that would make it important for him to get out and drive even in an emergency.

Reunion held for former school mates

The Brownville Schools alumni met for its 20th school reunion on Saturday, Oct. 7, at Hank's Cafe in Goodland with 37 in attendance. Nadine Hockett, secretary-treasurer, read several letters from people that were not able to attend. Chairman Glen Burk brought forth a round of laughter from everyone when he told a couple of humorous jokes.

The buffet dinner was enjoyed by everyone. Following the dinner there was a time of reminiscing about the good old school days when they attended Brownville Consolidated School.
