The buzzers are ready, and the team members are brushing up on their math, geography, science, current events and miscellaneous questions they will face. The Mustangs Scholars Bowl teams will be one of seven teams in the Northwest Kansas League tournament planned for Monday afternoon to be held at Grant

Junior High. Scholars Bowl coach Tanya Gray said the seven schools who are bringing teams include Colby, Oakley, Quinter, Hoxie, Oberlin and Rawlins County from Atwood. She said the competition is scheduled to begin about 3 p.m. She said the seventh and eighth grade teams will run separately and teams will be using eight rooms in the school building.

Gray said the eighth grade team has done well this year, and thinks they should do well in the tournament. "One of our two teams has won the league tournament for the past three years," she said. "I said I would retire when both teams won." Gray said she has been the coach for six years in Goodland and did it for six years in Brewster before coming to Goodland.

Members of the Eighth Grade Scholars Bowl team include Tyler Fisher, Mikail Freeman, Brendan Fulcher, Michaela Garrett, Jamie Gittinger, Page Seeger, Parker Sieck, Sydnee Thornburg, Garrett Nemechek and Abby Jolly.

Seventh Grade Scholars Bowl team members include Courtney Cowan, Amy Floyd, Jed Gray, Rachel Hageman, Jeffrey House, Michaela Langley, Brooke Lockhart, Ashlee Roeder, Spencer Smith and Trace Waugh.
