

Winds play havoc with games tent

had been completed before the rain started about 6:30 p.m. The carnival was rained out and the steel drum band was relocated into the Agriculture Building where they performed.

The weather service reported Goodland received 1.03 inches of rain on Monday.

Tuesday was wrist band night and the performance of Streetside, and there was a good crowd for the rides, games and grandstand show.

Schick had said on Monday that if it was going to rain during fair week Monday was the best time, and he did not want rain on Tuesday, Wednesday or Friday when the big shows were planned.

The rain storm that damaged the tent continued through the morning and did not let up until mid-afternoon when the decision was made to postpone the Howdy Rowdy Rodeo and Family Fun Night until Saturday morning. Later the events were cancelled.

Wednesday the Pro Bull Riders brought out a crowd of about 2,000 to watch and the Modified Tractor Pull on Friday had a good crowd in the grandstand.

The carnival rides had long lines on Friday for another wrist band night, and people were riding until 11 p.m.

Schick said the game tent was badly torn and Molstad from Colby Canvas told him it appeared to be a total loss. Schick said the tent was about nine years old, and that it was insured. He said they will replace it for next year.

"We were lucky we had the building where we could put the games," Schick said. "That has been a great asset for many reasons."

Return from fire fighting

One of two UH60 helicopters from the Kansas National Guard landed at Renner Field in the past week to refuel and get some food from the Butterflying Cafe before heading onto Salina where they are stationed. The helicopters were helping fight fires in California and pink numbers were painted on the sides so the firefighters could identify the helicopter and what it was carrying. Larry Dickey of Goodland said he son was not on these helicopters, but serves with the unit, which is split between Salina and Topeka.
