Paint town purple coming in May

By Ron Barkley
American Cancer Society Hero of Hope 2010

Team Captain Teachers for Life "Paint the Town Purple" has been a Relay for Life slogan for the last few years. In 2011 This year the Sherman County Relay for Life is making a special effort that Goodland will be "Painted Purple" to publicize the event that will take place on Friday and Saturday, June 3 and 4, at the Goodland High School track.

Why paint the town purple? All you need to do is ask any cancer survivor that has participated in Relay for Life and you will find out the special honor that survivors have...the survivors' purple Relay for Life badge of courage. Purple signifies the wearer as among the 14 million plus people that have been diagnosed with some form of cancer and survived! And that number is growing year after year. Purple is the color of survival, victory and the hope of a cure.

So we paint Goodland to draw attention to the Relay for Life. The event that the entire community can share in, a family night of fun and as a display of support for the people we know that have fought and are surviving cancer. Everyone can have a part of painting the town purple. Thanks to the effort of Goodland's City Manager Doug Gerber, the city will paint a purple stripe down the middle of Main Avenue. A Relay for Life banner will be hung across Main Avenue in front of Central Elementary School. Some businesses along Main are allowing Relay for Life to paint slogans of Hope in purple on their windows. Yard signs will begin to show up in the yard of Relay for Life team members. If you would like to help paint the town purple you can display a yard sign and hang purple ribbons on trees, fences and porches.

The City will issue an official proclamation at the City Commission meeting on Monday making May the official Relay for Life month in Goodland. Cancer survivors from Sherman County will be honored at a Survivors Reception at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday at the First Methodist Church Fellowship Hall for birthday cake and homemade ice cream. Eleven Relay for Life teams are having all kinds of fund raising activities to help raise money and businesses are corporate sponsors to help support the services and research projects of the American Cancer Society to reach its goal of making more and more cancer survivors...more people wearing those purple T-shirts.

And then you can participate in the final purple event the Relay for Life event at 7 p.m. on Friday, June 3, at the high school track. It will start with the "Survivor's Lap"...the sea of purple shirts worn by friends and family members that have survived cancer when they make that Victory Lap...and then be joined by that special family member or friend that supported them during their fight against cancer. You will also hear from Deb Winter, one of the Kansas Region American Cancer Society Heroes of Hope for 2011, as she relates her experiences as a survivor. As the sun sets and darkness falls, the Lunaria Service takes place. The hundreds of white luminaria sacks decorated with the names of cancer survivors that we honor or cancer victims that we hold in memory are lit as those names are read in the darkness out of respect.

Through the night KLOE-KKCI-KWGB radio personality Curtis Duncan will be the master of ceremonies and keep everyone informed, on the track and entertained. Activities planned to keep everyone busy include a silent auction, scavenger hunts, frozen T-shirt contest, Rock and Roll laps, local bands playing, local vocal talent signing, games and booths and maybe even a hoola-hoop contest. Kiwanis will have hamburgers on sale until 10 p.m. and the Knights of Columbus will have an early morning breakfast at 4:30 a.m. For more information call Ginger and Dusti Chadwick at (899-2525).

Won't you please help "Paint the Town Purple," buy a luminary support a drawing or fund raiser, support our survivors and be part of the Sherman County Relay for Life to not only "Paint the Town Purple" but help the American Cancer Society to provide a world with less cancer and more birthdays.
