

Nazarene youth group helps at Smoky Gardens

 A youth group from Rogers, Ark. spent several days painting at Memorial Field, cleaning at the High Plains Museum and painting and trimming at Soldiers Memorial Park at Smoky Gardens.
 The group of 12 teens aged 13 to 18 were a youth group from Rogers First Nazarene Church at Rogers, Ark.
 Youth Pastor Travis Lee said, "The kids and sponsors had a wonderful time. All were surprised at how warmly the city of Goodland received us. We are greatly appreciative of the kindness we received there, and hope that our efforts will be a blessing to all. We owe special appreciation to Michael Solomon, your city economic planner. He put projects, housing, entertainment and several meals together for the group."

The kids stayed at the First Baptist Church, 1121 Main, and took showers at the Goodland Activities Center.
 Richard Emig, member of the Smoky Gardens committee, said he enjoyed working with the group. The teens chopped brush, picked up branches and painted picnic tables at Soldiers Memorial Park. Thursday evening he and his wife and others fed the kids hot dogs and watermelon.
 At the High Plains Museum they cleaned at different exhibits. The kids said the dust was really flying. They painted in the building at Memorial Field.
 Pastor Lee said the group got to go to Steever Water Park and enjoyed that.
 The group was partnered with the Goodland Nazarene Church, 305 Caldwell.
 One of the sponsors said they would stop at Worlds of Fun at Kansas City on their way home.

 Pastor Lee said the youth group has had several other mission trips in the past few years. Last year they worked with an organization in inner city Oklahoma City, Okla., call Love Link Ministries, which is part of the Church of the Nazarene. The year before they worked in Houston, Texas, with a boys and girls club and the year before they worked in Cleveland, Ohio.
 The teens were Kaitlyn Gladwell, Cheyenne Brewton, Stephanie Clements, Alexis Cleavenger, Riley Henderson, Michael Shephard, Christopher Shephard, Nicholas Shephard, Kevin De Young, Eric Tucker, Austin Jones and Joel Vera. Besides Pastor Lee other sponsors were Calitia Lee and Melissa Mullen.

Some of the Nazarene youth group from Rogers, Ark., helped themselves to food provided by Richard and Marcia Emig Thursday evening at Solders Memorial Park at Smoky Gardens. The 12 teens and their three sponsors spent part of the week in Goodland painting at Memorial Field, cleaning at the High Plains Museum and cleaning and painting at Smoky Gardens.
