Goodland man wins scholarship

Tim Armknecht of Goodland was one of six Colby Community College students awarded scholarship for allied health majors from the Dane G. Hansen Foundation.

Armknecht recently completed the course work to become a licensed practical nurse. A graduate of St. Francis High School, he worked at Golden West of Goodland in community services. He plans to start course work for his Bachelor of Science degree in nursing. He and his wife Shauna have a four-year-old daughter Amanda. He plans to work at a facility within driving distance of Goodland.

The five others that received scholarships are Shelley Ritter of Hill City, Aida Racette of Oakley, Sandra Ross-Crowder of Norton, Celeste Ford of Colby and Christy Pemberton of Burlington.

Ritter will graduate from the CCC Physical Therapist Assistant program in August. She is currently employed at the Graham County Hospital and Sealye Assisted Living House. A graduate of Norton High School, she worked as a Certified Nurse Assistant prior to enrolling at Colby college.

Racette recently completed the Licensed Practical Nurse to Registered Nurse evening program at Colby college. In addition to working at the long term care facility in Quinter and the Gove County Hospital, she travelled to Colby one evening each week for two years to complete the course work to take the RN licensing examination.

Ross-Crowder is enrolled in the nursing program at Colby college. She plans to complete her course work at the college to become a registered nurse and then continue her education with the goal of becoming a nurse practitioner. She is a graduate of Eastern Illinois University with an undergraduate and master's degree in elementary education. She has also served in the Army as a medic and physical therapist specialist. She recently worked as a counselor in Norton.

Ford is a graduate of Grant High School in Grant, Neb. She graduated in May from the registered nursing program at Colby college. In addition to completing her associate degree in nursing, she delivered twin daughters in June 2010. She is currently enrolled in the bachelor of nursing online program from the University of St. Mary in Leavenworth.

Pemberton, a graduate of Hoxie High School, recently completed the associate degree in nursing program at Colby college. She is employed at the Goodland Regional Medical Center. While attending college, she worked three 12-hour shifts each weekend. She plans to be a medical/surgical nurse.
