

Fair activities dominate week

Much of Sherman County's attention has been focused on the Northwest Kansas District Free Fair this week. The 4-H and Open Class competitors vied for the champion ribbons in a variety of categories such as food preparation (top left), where Cody Hooker got champion in the senior division. Many competitors spent time at the washing stations (top right) keeping their livestock cool and clean for when it came time for the judging (above). The livestock in question were housed together in the various buildings at the fairgrounds (right). The swine, beef, goat and sheep judging shows (bottom left) always draw a large crowd, while many of the exhibits and booths in the Ag Building (bottom right) proved fascinating.
