Fatal wreck on I-70 early Monday

The roads in Sherman County proved more dangerous Monday morning than they had been during last weeks' blizzard. Snow began falling late Sunday, leaving roads icy and snowpacked Monday morning.

At 7:56 a.m. Monday, emergency medical technicians, fire rescue vehicles and Highway Patrol troopers were called to the scene of a one-vehicle rollover on I-70 at mile post 13. The vehicle had rolled into the median and came to rest on its wheels. The reporting party described the accident as possibly fatal. A firefighter on scene said the driver of the vehicle was in bad condition.

A second ambulance was paged out at 8:02. At 8:12, the ambulance crew reported they were taking two patients to the hospital. One was "code blue," meaning the patient was in either cardiac or respiratory arrest. Rescue personnel reported they were attempting cardiopulmonary resuscitation. The ambulance reached Goodland Regional Medical Center at 8:25. The patient was declared dead at the hospital.

Earlier in the day, a Highway Patrol trooper in Sherman County had reported the driving lane on I-70 was icy and the passing lane was partially snow packed.

Traffic accidents in Sherman County were relatively light from the Wednesday-Thursday storm. Several slide-offs were reported on I-70. Things were worse further east, with an injury accident northwest of Oakley on Wednesday.

The Highway Patrol reported 15 injury crashes across Kansas, with 106 non-injury crashes and 1,454 motorist assist calls, which includes

Rescue personnel worked to get a recreational vehicle back onto I-70 near Ruleton on Friday. The snowstorms over the past week have resulted in several slide-offs. There was also a fatal accident Monday morning.

slide-offs, tows, abandoned vehicles and stranded motorists.

The National Weather Service recording 4.5 inches of snow on Wednesday and 7.4 inches on Thursday for a total of 11.9. Winds got as high as 38 mph, dropping visibility to a quarter-mile in some places.

The Community Collaborative

Rain, Hail and Snow Network, an organization of citizens who post precipitation reports, recorded snowfall of 10-11 inches.

I-70 was shut down from east to west for several hours Thursday. It was closed eastbound from Colby to Goodland at 5:30 p.m. Thursday. The road was re-opened later that evening.

Sunday's snowfall came from the opposite direction, hitting areas of Colorado and Wyoming first before heading into Kansas and Nebraska. Snowfall began in Goodland late Sunday evening, resulting in about six tenths of an inch. Wind speeds reached 32 mph. The Weather Service has recorded 22.7 inches of snow since Dec. 1.

The Weather Service is predicting a slight chance of snow tonight, but sunny and clear with highs in the 30s for the rest of the week.

It's hard to start on complex issues

Do you procrastinate when faced with complex issues? Lots of people fail to move forward because they're too overwhelmed to get started.

One of the best pieces of advice I've received is "start with what you know." This has helped me in so many areas.

When working on a complicated tax return, I start with what I know — name, address, Social Security Number, income, etc. — then the areas that are difficult don't seem so overwhelming. When business planning, I start with what I know —

Oberlin's Artfest seeking entries for show and sale

The 9th Annual High Plains Art-Fest Show and Sale is scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 26, 27 and 28 at the Gateway in Oberlin.

A prospectus has been mailed to artists and art work will be accepted from noon to 4 p.m. (Mountain Time) on Sunday, April 14, and from noon (Mountain Time) on Monday, April 15.

There are nine categories including pastel, photography, original hand-formed ceramics, ink/drawing/charcoal, other 2-D, other 3-D, watercolor, acrylic and oil. Entry form and fees must be received by April 8.

Adults can submit up to eight pieces for paying artists for entries and six for qualifying non-paying artists. Each additional piece will be $8.

College students qualify as non-paying artists. High School art teachers are encouraged to submit work for their students also at no charge. Additional prospectus can be received by calling Connie Grafel at (785) 475-2901.

Purchase Patrons are invited to a Gala Event on Friday evening, April 26 to visit with artists and view the art selecting a People's Choice Award. You can also contact Grafel if you would be interested in becoming a Purchase Patron to help support the arts.

Last year, over 44 artworks sold for a total of $5,275. Over $3,000 was distributed to artists as awards. Over 300 people attended the gala with 202 visitors viewing the show Saturday and Sunday.

"Once again, we will feature a 'Cell Phone Art' category," said Mary Henzel. "These photo entries are not framed as they will be pinned to cork board. They must be less than 4x6 inches and printed on photo paper. There will be a $3 photo entry fee. Entries will be limited to three per person. There is no separate free category for students in this division.

The cell phone art division will not be judged in the regular show but instead will be voted on during the weekend for a special People's Choice Award."

Artists need to put their mailing address on the backs of the photos so the award can be mailed to the winner. Artists entering the Cell Phone Art Division are not eligible for free admittance to the Gala Event. Only artists who enter the Regular Judged ArtFest Show as an adult or student are eligible for entrance to the Gala Event.

Entrants must pick up their artwork by 2 p.m. (Mountain Time) on Sunday, April 28, or their photos will not be returned. This new division is intended to showcase the diversity, artistry, fun and beauty that is being captured by cell phones around us every day. The honor system must be used and we ask that entrants enter only work captured by cell phones instead of regular cameras, said Henzel.

Endangered species art contest pieces due by March 15

Elementary, middle and high school teachers are encouraged to have their student participate in the annual Endangered Species Day Youth Art Contest, an integral part of the eighth annual national Endangered Species Day, to be celebrated on Friday, May 17.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and numerous conservation organizations will observe the day to recognize conservation efforts underway across the nation aimed at helping America's imperiled species. This year also commemorates the 40th Anniversary of the Endangered Species Act.

Started in 2006 by Congress, Endangered Species Day is a celebration of the nation's rarest plant and animal species. The contest provides students from kindergarten to high school with an opportunity to learn about threatened and endangered species and express their knowledge and support through artwork. Young artists who are home schooled and participate in youth groups are also eligible to submit their art.

Previous winners have come from California, Minnesota, New Jersey, Louisiana and as far away as Alaska.

Entries must be postmarked by Friday, March 15.

This year, the finalists will be judged by a prestigious panel of artists, photographers and conservationists, including Wyland, renowned marine life artist; Janek Hanna, host of "Jack Hanna's Into the Wild;" David Littschwager, a freelance photographer and regular contributor to National Geographic Magazine; Susan Middletown, a photographer who has collaborated with Littschwager and whose own work has been published in four books; and Alice Tangerini, botanical illustrator for the Smithsonian Institution.

The International Child Art Foundation will select the 40 semifinalists from thousands of entries. It takes empathy, direct action and awareness to prevent the extinction of endangered species. Art can certainly play an important role. The Youth Art Contest is an ideal platform to engage the next generation.

Winners will be chosen in four categories and will receive plaques and art supply gift packs. In addition, one grand prize winner will be honored with their name engraved on a special trophy and receive a round-trip flight to Washington, D.C., with one guardian to attend a reception in May. The grand prize winner will also receive art supplies and a special art less via Skype from Wyland, the artist.

Spring oats can provide summer annual forage

By: Jeanne Falk

Kansas State Agronomist

Over the last several years, cattle producers across the state have found spring oats to provide excellent spring pasture and hay. With reasonable inputs, spring oats can provide a bridge for producers short on available pasture in April and May until perennial pasture or summer annual forage production becomes available. In addition, it may help fill some of the gaps producers have this year with the dry conditions.

In northwest Kansas, the optimal date is from the first week of March through the end of March. However, adequate pasture is practical after the optimum planting date. To maximize pasture production potential, it is necessary to plant as early as possible. A seeding rate of two bushels per acre is recommended. Under good soil moisture or irrigation, three bushels per acre may be preferable for grazing.

Oats may be successfully planted no-till, however, growth and vigor are typically greater when pre-plant tillage is used. No-till is more successful in fields that have been under no-till for a period of years, and riskier in "opportunistic" no-till situations. In either case, a firm seedbed is necessary for optimal production. Under adequate soil moisture conditions, a seeding depth of 1/2 to 1 inch is preferable. Oats may be planted at depths greater than one inch under dry conditions; however, oat seedlings are less vigorous than wheat and can experience difficulties emerging at deeper planting depths, especially after crusting rains.

Oat pasture should be treated the same as winter wheat pasture in terms of stocking rates and time to initiate grazing. Since grain production is not practical or recommended under grazing, producers should treat oat pasture as a graze-out program or remove it when ready for the next crop. Oats are easily controlled by a variety of herbicides, such as glyphosate and atrazine. The length of effective grazing is a function of stocking rate and weather. Rotational grazing may extend the window for effective pasture production.

For hay, late boot to early heading is the optimal timing to balance quantity with quality considerations. Harvested at the dough stage, hay should have an approximate total digestible nutrients of 56 percent with 10 percent protein, both on a dry basis. A nitrate test is recommended. Prussic acid levels should not be a concern.

Silage is another option for spring oats. Oats should be harvested for silage from late milk through early dough stages. Expect silage with a total digestible nutrients of approximately 60 percent and 9 percent protein on a dry weight basis.

Finally, oats in Kansas may be planted for grain with expected yields of 50 or more bushels per acre most years. However, typical growing conditions during grain fill normally result in low test weights, making the grain unsuitable for food use. Grain from oats is acceptable as livestock feed; however, a market should be identified prior to planting since few markets exist locally.

Kansas universities still changing lives

The historian James Truslow Adams once wrote: "There are two types of education. One should teach us how to make a living, and the other how to live." Kansas State University and Emporia State University have been highly successful at doing both for more than a century.

This year marks the 150th anniversary for both Kansas State University and Emporia State University. Throughout the decades, the universities have made a significant impact on our state and changed lives for the better.

In 1863, K-State opened its doors as America's first land grant institution. Classes began with 52 students, but the university did not remain small for long. Today, nearly 24,000 students from all 50 states and more than 90 countries attend K-State. Students can choose from more than 250 undergraduate majors and participate in more than 475 student organizations.

Recognized by the Princeton Review as one of our nation's best colleges, K-State has a reputation of academic excellence. Wildcats are also known for their commitment to one another. In 2006, students created K-State Proud to raise funds for fellow students who are struggling to remain at school. Over the last 6 years, students have raised more than $550,000 to help their peers continue their studies.

If you ask any K-State alum what they love most about their school, they will probably tell you it's the K-State family. The spirit of camaraderie between alumni across generations is remarkable. Among the thousands of K-State alumni are Olympic gold medalists, accomplished scientists and successful businessmen. The names of several alumni are familiar to most Kansans, including Governor Sam Brownback, General Dick Myers – the former Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff – and perhaps the most proud Wildcat I know, my friend and colleague Senator Pat Roberts.

For the past 150 years, Emporia State University has also been changing lives. ESU was founded in 1863 as Kansas' first school for training teachers and originally known as Kansas Normal School. In its first year, the president and only teacher, Lyman Kellogg, taught 18 students on the second floor of the district school house.

Today, 6,500 students from 45 states and 55 countries are enrolled at Emporia State University. Consistently ranked as a Tier 1 Regional University by U.S. News & World Report, ESU offers students a wide range of academic programs to choose from and the opportunity to participate in more than 130 student organizations.

Whether ESU students pursue a career in education or another field, many students continue their studies or return to Emporia State for graduate work. Among the Kansas Regents universities, ESU students earn the highest percentage of graduate degrees – one-third of all the degrees earned annually.

Today, more than 75,000 alumni from 50 states and 80 countries are proud to be called Emporia State Hornets. Alumni from Emporia State have gone on to accomplish great things. Among the many distinguished alumni are Minnie Grinstead, who was the first woman elected to the Kansas state legislature in 1918, and Robert Mott, a World War II veteran who later helped create National Public Radio.

To commemorate this historic anniversary, the Kansas Legislative Delegation introduced two resolutions, which were both approved by the U.S. Senate, to congratulate the students, faculty and alumni of K-State and Emporia State University for 150 years of excellence in higher education. Happy Anniversary to the Wildcats and the Hornets – may the next 150 years be even brighter than the last. – Sen. Jerry Moran

More information on Medicaid

Last week I received the results of an analysis commissioned by the Kansas Department of Health and Environment on the potential enrollment and budget impact of the Affordable Care Act's implementation to the state Medicaid/Children's Health Insurance Program.

Assuming that moderate statewide population growth will continue and using 2010 Medicaid enrollment as a base, the study estimates that if the state chooses not to expand Medicaid, the enrollment will increase by 20,653 in 2014, ramping up to 41,538 (23,740 for Medicaid and 17,798 for the children's program) by 2016, when the Affordable Care Act is expected to be fully implemented. The anticipated 10-year state general fund increase for no expansion will be $513 million.

If the state chooses to expand Medicaid, enrollment will increase by 111,880 in 2014, ramping up to 226,003 (25,416 from currently eligible Medicaid, 49,384 from currently eligible Children's Health Insurance Program, and 151,203 from those newly eligible for Medicaid in 2016, once the Affordable Care Act is fully implemented. The anticipated 10-year State General Fund increase with expansion compared to no Affordable Care Act will be $1.1 billion.

Governor Brownback has not yet announced a decision on whether or not the state will expand Medicaid. An increase of $1.1 billion over ten years to state expenditures is a very significant increase that would have an impact on the state's ability to fund its other core responsibilities, such as education. If the state expands Medicaid, the Affordable Care Act does say that the federal government will pay 100 percent of the cost of the expansion for the first three years and then 90 percent after that. However, if the federal government, which is currently running trillion dollar deficits, is not able to make good on its offer, then the impact on the state would be even greater.

I need to make a correction about a statement I made last week about KanCare. Most of the recipients had received their card by January 1. The problem was that, in some areas, very few were showing up to get prescriptions with their new card. Overall, KanCare is off to a very strong start. There would have to be problems, with such a large undertaking, but in the long haul I believe it will benefit the state.

I just finished updating my website www.wardcassidy.com. There is information about all of district 120 counties, my weekly news article, update on the state retirement system and other information. We also start our district coffee shops soon and will be glad to answer any questions you might have.

16th Amendment turns 100

Taxes have always been a controversial issue in our American history. After all, colonists dumping tea into the Boston Harbor to protest British duties is one of the defining events of America's birth. Colonists were not necessarily protesting all taxes, but they resented and opposed a far-off King and Parliament imposing taxes on them. No taxation without representation.

Many of these same protesting colonists, our Founding Fathers, maintained their same concern about an all-too-powerful federal government, and wrote a Constitution that permitted only the House – the direct representatives of the American people – to raise taxes or revenues. In a nation that valued freedom over the power of the state, it was supposed to be a big deal to raise taxes.

It still is, and it still should be. But for some in Washington, raising taxes is seen as no big deal.

With the passage of the "fiscal cliff deal" last month (which I opposed), 77 percent of all American households saw taxes on their incomes increase. Paychecks shrank for all workers as the Social Security tax holiday was not renewed. And, for many family farms and other small businesses, the President's tax increase agenda will hamper their abilities to hire new employees, invest in equipment, and pay for employees' health care. For the so-called tax on the rich pushed by Obama will trap many a Main Street business here in Kansas – taxing more of their incomes now and more of their estates later.

tim huelskamp

This February marks the 100th Anniversary of the Ratification of the 16th Amendment, which allowed Congress to tax individual income directly. Except during the Civil War – when an income tax was levied to pay for Union efforts – taxes were not imposed on wages and earnings. In fact, prior to the 1913 Amendment, a flat income tax had not passed constitutional muster.

While it is unlikely that the 16th Amendment will be abandoned, there is no reason why we have to continue suffering under the current complicated and convoluted system. When it takes Americans more than six billion hours to prepare their taxes and at a cost to them of $168 billion, we have a problem. A tax code with four million words is destructive and full of danger: the complexity has negative economic impacts, is ripe for political favoritism and cronyism, and even an unintentional mistake may invite penalties and fines.

We can and must simplify the tax code to make it fairer, flatter, and smarter. Doing so not only lessens the burden on individuals, families and businesses, but might also address the challenges we have with revenue shortfalls. Make no mistake, the problem in Washington is still that we spend too much. But cleaning up a messy web of deductions, credits, exemptions – and reducing the rates – would certainly create a pro-growth economic environment that benefits everyone, not just large businesses like GE or billionaires like Warren Buffett who can afford legions of lawyers and accountants to avoid taxes other Americans must pay.

Waste not, want not

During the last couple of decades, some environmental groups have been less than kind to agriculture. They have bombarded the public with figures on soil loss, pesticide-related mishaps and alleged failed attempts at using herbicides and other crop protectors. Their figures are oftentimes unverifiable.

Technology is often labeled as the No. 1 environmental enemy by some of these groups. Food producers – farmers and ranchers – view technology as the application of knowledge. As humans, we survive by adapting the environment to our needs.

Take away technology and humans would be just like other primates – confined to tropical regions and subject to extinction due to environmental changes. To survive, mankind has changed his environment while conserving resources and continually creating new ones.

Resources are made not born. Land, ores, petroleum – the raw materials of our planet – do not inherently further human purposes.

Man determines what is useful and how to use it. Topsoil becomes a resource when a farmer prepares the soil and plants wheat seed, for example. Ores become resources when metals are extracted from them.

During the past two centuries, technology has been creating resources more rapidly than humans have been consuming them. By every measure of price and availability, resources have become more abundant. Without science and technology today's farmers and ranchers would be unable to feed the masses. Farmers use technology responsibly and adopt new farming methods and practices by attending training sessions and courses.

Insight this week

• john schlageck

But new farm technology is expensive. It is in the best interest of farmers to use it carefully and sparingly. Misuse would add to the cost of production, which would result in an even lower return on their investment.

Farmers use agricultural chemicals only when necessary. When they use chemicals, farmers follow label directions designed for public health and safety. When a rancher uses antibiotics and other animal health products for their stock, they follow proper drug use practices. When new advances in biotechnology are discovered, farmers must abide by stringent testing and monitoring practices that ensure only safe products in the marketplace.

Food produced in the United States is safe. More than four decades of Food and Drug Administration testing has shown the majority of our fruits and vegetables have no detectable pesticide residues. This underscores that American farmers use pesticides properly. Our grain and cereal crops are among the cleanest and most wholesome in the world.

Countless laws help ensure our food is safe. Billions of dollars are spent to support food and agricultural safety and quality inspection. The private sector, combined with state and local governments, also spends billions on similar activities. Farmers and ranchers support efforts to evaluate and enhance the current regulatory and food monitoring system. Agricultural producers want to work with all parties toward maintaining safe food, but this industry must avoid policy changes that are based solely on fear or false information.

Decisions affecting the course of agricultural production remain critically important and will have far reaching implications on our quality of life. We must be careful in determining long-term policies. Farmers and ranchers will continue to maximize their production capacity with an ever-watchful eye on food safety, quality and our environment.

Leoti plans wind festival

The inaugural Wind and Wheels Festival is coming to Leoti on Saturday, April 20. This all day event at the Wichita County High School will celebrate the area's abundance of wind in a unique fashion.

Wind and Wheels will feature kite demonstrations and open kite flying, a car and motorcycle show, live music performances and food. A landing from an Eagle Med helicopter, wind energy presentations and radio control flyers will also be part of the festival. The day will kick off with the AIM Committee's AIM for the Track 5K, supporting the fundraising efforts for a high school track.

There is no fee for attending the festival. Some activities – such as the 5K, entering the car show and food purchase – will require a fee. Attendees are encouraged to bring lawn chairs and kites for the open kite flying opportunities. There will be kites available for purchase during the event.

"After years of lacking a major community festival besides the county fair, we are excited to resurrect a celebration of community assets with Wind and Wheels," said Simone Cahoj, event coordinator and Wichita County Economic Development director. "We've got great support from 21st Century Equipment and other local businesses to help make this event a reality."

Interested car enthusiasts can email windandwheels@gmail.com or call (620) 375-2182 to get a registration form. For more information about the event, find Wind and Wheels on Facebook or visit www.windandwheels.org.

Attorney General says homeowners got $52.9 million from settlement

More than 1,400 Kansas homeowners received almost $53 million in mortgage assistance during 2012 from the national mortgage settlement, Kansas Attorney General Derek Schmidt announced today.

The latest report on implementation of the national settlement, published this week, shows 1,445 Kansas homeowners received a total of $52.9 million in mortgage assistance under the settlement between March 1 and Dec. 31. According to the report, the average relief per homeowner was $36,677.

The $52.9 million in assistance, which was provided directly by the mortgage servicers to the borrowers, has come in the form of lien modifications and extinguishments, short sales, refinancing and other types of adjustments in mortgage obligations of affected homeowners.

"These national mortgage servicers engaged in lending practices that caused direct harm to hundreds of Kansas homeowners," Schmidt said. "This national report shows that our enforcement action is continuing to provide the help that many Kansas homeowners desperately need."

In March 2012, Kansas, 48 other states, the District of Columbia, and the federal government entered into a landmark settlement with the nation's five largest mortgage servicers to resolve the states' allegations of illegal conduct in the mortgage servicing market. Under terms of the settlement, the five servicers are providing mortgage relief to qualifying homeowners.

The five mortgage servicers who settled are Ally Financial, Bank of America, Citigroup, JPMorgan Chase and Wells Fargo. Further investigation into illegal conduct in the mortgage market during the national financial crisis is ongoing.

Kansans seeking more information can contact the attorney general's Consumer Protection Division at (800) 432-2310 or www.ag.ks.gov.

Test soil for nutrient levels

Most gardeners think that soil tests are done only to find out what nutrients are deficient. However, it is just as important to know if you have adequate levels of nutrients so you don't add unneeded fertilizer.

The most basic soil test checks pH and the levels of phosphorus and potassium. Most of the lawn and garden soil tests that come out of the Kansas State soils testing lab show more than adequate levels of both phosphorus and potassium. If those nutrients are not needed, applying them is a waste of money and can be a source of pollution. In extreme cases, excess phosphorus can interfere with the uptake of micronutrients. So, if you haven't taken a soil test in several years, take one this spring.

Begin by taking a representative sample from a number of locations in the garden or lawn that goes from the surface to 6 to 8 inches deep. Mix the samples together in a clean container and select about 1 cup of soil. You can bring your soil to any of our

• ag notebook

Kansas State Research and Extension/Sunflower District offices and we will send it to have tests done at the Kansas State soil-testing laboratory for a small charge. A soil test determines fertility problems, not other conditions that may exist such as poor drainage, poor soil structure, soil borne diseases or insects, chemical contaminants or damage, or shade with root competition from other plants. All of these conditions may reduce plant performance but cannot be evaluated by a soil test.

Community support makes it possible!

Why shop locally?

Shopping at local businesses has a significant impact on our local economy. Businesses pay sales tax to the city and county where the business is located. When customers make the choice to leave the area to do their shopping, they are supporting areas outside of their own. Tax dollars support many aspects of our community: the library, the police officers, our parks and streets. They support us and we should support them!
