I-70 chase ends with gunshots

A man trying to elude a bevy of law enforcement officers was shot and wounded by a state trooper Wednesday night after the chase ended just east of the the Edson exit on Interstate 70.

A press release Thursday morning from the Colby Police Department said officers were sent to the Oasis Travel Center, just south of I-70 at Colby's Range Avenue exit about 8:47 p.m. (Mountain Time), after a report of a man and woman allegedly soliciting for prostitution. Officers saw a similar car about 9:20 p.m. at the Pilot Truck Stop at the Country Club Drive exit, a mile to the east. A check of the vehicle's tag indicated it had been stolen in Texas.

The driver took off westbound on I-70, leading Colby officers and at least one Kansas Highway Patrol trooper who had come to help with the search at speeds past 90 mph.

Officers set up "stop sticks" at milepost 48, and reported they might have gotten one of the car's tires. By the time the chase got into Sherman County, the vehicle was running on flat tires, its speed lowered to 65. It stopped in the westbound ditch of I-70 near milepost 28, east of the Edson exit.

Two troopers coming from Goodland had joined the chase as well as the Sherman County Sheriff, undersheriff and a deputy. Once the car stopped, Colby Police said, the driver got out and pointed what appeared to be a gun at officers. Officers fired, wounding the man. He and the woman were placed under arrest. No officers were injured.

Two Sherman County ambulances were paged out at 9:40 p.m. The scene was reported secure at 9:50 p.m. The man was reported to have two gunshot wounds, one on the chest and one on the lower abdomen. He was taken to Goodland Regional Medical Center. A short time later, he was airlifted to Wichita.

Sheriff's Office planning drug take-back for Saturday

Sherman County residents will have the opportunity to get rid of their unwanted prescription drugs from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday at the Sherman County Sheriff's Office parking lot, 813 Broadway.

The Drug Take Back event is being put on by Sheriff Burton Pianalto, the Goodland Elks Club and the Drug Enforcement Administration as an opportunity for people to rid their homes of potentially dangerous expired, unused or unwanted prescription drugs. The service is free and anonymous with no questions asked.

"It is important to keep the drugs out of the hands of the youth and individuals that may sell these drugs," Pianalto said.

For information, call the Sheriff's Office at (785) 890-4835.

Last October, Americans turned in 324 tons (over 647,000 pounds) of prescription drugs at over 4,114 sites operated by the Drug Enforcement Administration and its thousands of state and local law enforcement partners. When those results are combined with what was collected in its seven previous Take Back events, the administration and its partners have taken in over 3.4 million pounds — more than 1,700 tons — of pills.

This initiative addresses a vital public safety and public health issue. Medicines that languish in home cabinets are highly susceptible to diversion, misuse, and abuse. Rates of prescription drug abuse in the U.S. are alarmingly high, as are the number of accidental poisonings and overdoses due to these drugs. Studies show that a majority of abused prescription drugs are obtained from family and friends.

The Administration is in the process of approving new regulations that implement the Safe and Responsible Drug Disposal Act of 2010, which amends the Controlled Substances Act to allow an "ultimate user," a patient or their family member or pet owner, of controlled substance medications to dispose of them by delivering them to entities authorized by the Attorney General to accept them. The Act also allows the Attorney General to authorize long term care facilities to dispose of their residents' controlled substances in certain instances.

Isreal "Izzy" Nipps

Isreal "Izzy" Nipps died at the age of 39 in the comfort of his grandparent's home in St. Francis, KS, on Friday, April 18, 2014. Izzy was the first child to Charlie Nipps and Susie Walz, born on January 20, 1975, followed closely by his sister, Crystal and later on, Amanda. Izzy and Crystal had many adventures growing up together and it was never certain what the pair would be up to next. Then, when Amanda came along several years later, it was obvious that despite the years between them, the two instantly had a very special connection.

Izzy graduated from St. Francis Community High School in 1993. Then he attended Northwest Kansas Technical College where he graduated in 1996 with degrees in engineering and telecommunications. He had a passion for learning and he continued to educate himself as much as possible on just about anything and everything. Those that knew Izzy well would often refer to him as the alternative to Google.

As with learning, Izzy never settled with what he had or where he was at, putting his whole heart and soul into everything he did. He believed whole heartedly that you had to continually work hard to better yourself and that you must live each day to your fullest ability. Hewas led by example for those he loved.

As a youngster, Izzy fell in love with shooting and all things related. Izzy was in Junior High when he won the very first NRA Whittington Center BPC Long-range Silhouette Championship, and only continued to improve over time. His twin nephews, Blair and Dalton, will forever have memories of shooting a wide variety of guns and even having the local police show up when they started to shoot exploding targets. Hewas loved to spoil his special niece, Dakota Rae, from the moment she was born, as he was wrapped around her finger. Izzy always had a special place in his heart for children. Whenever the family was together, it was guaranteed that he would have some crazy thing planned for all his nieces and nephews. Izzy also had passions for music, preferably at live shows, and being on the open road while riding his Harleys with family and friends.

Isreal is survived by his loyal buddies Sid and Shiloh, loving parents Charlie Nipps, Susie and Greg Walz, sister, Crystal and Dustin Hoffman, niece Dakota and nephews Blair and Dalton, sister Amanda Nipps, step-brothers Shane Walz and his wife Connie, nephews Brayden, Kaleb and Colton, Dallas Walz and wife Heather, Gabe Walz and wife Danielle and niece Marliegh, step-sister Desirae Walz and godson Andrew Selby. Izzy is also survived by many close friends that were like family to him. Hewas had many brothers.

Isreal is preceded in death by grandparents, Roy "Hooky" and Deloris "Dee" Nipps, Harry and Tillie Schlepp, great grandparents Alma Nipps, and Fred and Bertha Krien, Godmother Aunt Pam Gerver and The Godfather H.T. Krummel, aka Uncle Tom.

There will be a service held at the First Christian Church at 10:30 a.m. on Friday, April 25, 2014, in St. Francis, with interment in the Goodland cemetery.

Isreal's family would like to thank everyone for their kind words and support at this difficult time. Izzy has made countless friends through his life and will be missed by many. Hewas loved by all who knew him and will be missed by many. Hewas loved by all who knew him and will be missed by many. Hewas loved by all who knew him and will be missed by many.

White Way went to border

By Ron Wilson

*Director
Huck Boyd National Institute for Rural Development at Kansas State University*
“Road trip!” That’s a phrase which makes me want to hit the highway. But think back to a time when our ancestors did not have traversable highways between their communities. Visionary leaders led the effort to create better roads, including one known at the time as the Kansas White Way. Now another set of visionary leaders is honoring that heritage today, with—what else?—a road trip.

Lori Parker is the person who told me about the Kansas White Way Car Run. Lori was born in Nevada. She met her husband Tom in New Mexico before relocating to Denver, where they lived for 26 years. In 2000, Lori and Tom decided to move to the area where her mother had grown up near Blue Rapids. “The people who have welcomed us here have been incredible,” Lori said. Tom continues with his writing and photography career.

Lori is a history buff. She enjoys reading the historical accounts of yesteryear as printed in the local newspapers. One such account told of an effort to develop an improved east-west roadway. To publicize this need, local citizens in 1914 organized a car run. Drivers from Atchison on the east and Concordia on the west agreed to drive toward each other and meet in the town of Frankfort.

Lori was intrigued by this concept. “This is back in the day when they didn’t have good roads between the towns,” she said. “They had mud.” Visionary citizens saw the need for improved roads for their communities. They used the car run to promote a connecting highway which was formed and called the White Way.

Lori contacted people in Concordia and Atchison to learn more and discuss how to honor and preserve this history. An idea was hatched to conduct a modern-day car run along the route of the old Kansas White Way, which is now Kansas Highway 9. The run was conducted successfully in 2006.

Now another Kansas White Way car run is scheduled for May 10 which will mark 100 years since the original organizational meeting to create the Kansas White Way. A century ago, some highways were designated with colors, such as the White Way, Blue Line, Red Line, and Golden Belt. Highway numbers didn’t come into use until 1926.

The Kansas White Way was a major route from northeast Kansas all the way across the state. In fact, the White Way extended from Chicago to Colorado. Everyone wanted the road to come through their towns. An old map shows the route from Atchison to Goodland, with a connecting leg to Kansas City.

Lori and Tom Parker did extensive research on the Kansas White Way, locating old-time pictures of White Way markers. At one time there were many businesses along the route with names like the White Way Café, White Way Barbershop, White Way Bakery, White Way Chevrolet and more.

On May 10, 2014, citizens are invited to follow the route of the Kansas White Way just as their ancestors had done 100 years ago. One group will go east from Concordia and the other will go west from Atchison, with many others joining along the way. The cars will meet in Frankfort and have a ceremony at 2 p.m. Everyone is invited to participate. A $15 registration is requested. Both modern and antique vehicles are welcome and expected.

Of course, this route traverses rural Kansas. It passes through towns such as Goff, population 177; Barnes, population 148; and Palmer, population 105 people. Now, that’s rural.

“People are having a lot of fun with this,” Lori said. Many communities are offering food and places to stop. Some old-time gas stations will wash car windows for free.

For more information, go to www.kswiteway.wordpress.com.

Road Trip! It’s a call to hit the highway, or in this case, the White Way. We commend Lori and Tom Parker and all those involved with the Kansas White Way Car Run for making a difference with this effort to honor and perpetuate our history. They are celebrating our communities and our heritage with this trip down the open road.

Three tips to help ensure future blooms

It seems to happen overnight, when the cold, dreary days of winter give way to green grass and colorful patches of flowers in the landscape.

Three easy steps you take now will help ensure spring-flowering bulbs will bloom for years to come, said Kansas State University horticulturist Ward Upham.

1. If practical, remove spent flowers with a scissors or a hand pruner. This allows the plant to conserve its energy for bloom the next year rather than using it to produce seed.

2. Allow foliage to die naturally—it is needed to manufacture food that will be stored in the bulb and used for next year’s flowers.

3. Don’t fertilize. The roots of these plants start to shut down after flowering. Fertilizer applied at this time is wasted. Instead, fertilize during the fall at the time bulbs are normally planted and again in the spring when new growth pokes out of the ground.

Upham is the Horticulture Rapid Response coordinator with Kansas State Research and Extension. He also coordinates the state’s extension Master Gardener program.

More information about growing flowers, as well as fruits and vegetables, lawns, trees and shrubs is available at Kansas State Research and Extension county and district offices across Kansas and online at www.ksre.ksu.edu/p.aspx?tabid=24.

Foundation offers tree-care tips

The Arbor Day Foundation is offering a handy tree-care booklet designed to help people plant and care for trees.

Anyone can receive Conservation Trees, a user-friendly booklet featuring illustrations, colorful photos and easily-understood descriptions, by making a $3 donation to the Foundation this month.

“Conservation Trees is an ideal resource for tree planters,” said John Rosenow, founder and chief executive of the Arbor Day Foundation. “Taking care of existing trees is just as critical as planting new ones, and proper care ensures communities are able to fully enjoy the diverse benefits of urban forestry.”

The booklet provides details about the right way to plant and prune trees.

It also includes tips on using shade trees and windbreaks to save on energy costs, attract songbirds and create a living snow fence.

To receive the Conservation

Trees booklet, send a $3 check along with your name and address to: Conservation Trees, Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Ave., Nebraska City, Neb., 68410, or order online at arborday.org/conservationtrees.

from our viewpoint...

Keystone pipeline a foregone conclusion

The administration has put off any decision on the embattled Keystone XL pipeline, which would deliver oil from Canada to the U.S. distribution system at Cushing, Okla., helping ease our imports of expensive, undependable Mideast crude.

The project is beset by an odd combine of supposedly conservative Nebraska farmers and ranchers worried about the disruption of their land, and environmentalists, who never saw a barrel of oil they liked.

These groups tend to talk out of both sides of their mouths. Environmentalists decry our huge imports of oil, but when offered an alternative, criticize production of any oil from the tar sands of the far north. Or anywhere else on this continent. Some, we're sure would be happy if we all went back to the horse and buggy.

Like they were going to give up their iPads and lattes. Many ranchers became environmentalists when they heard the pipeline would cross their land. They say they fear an oil spill would compromise the groundwater under the Sand Hills of Nebraska they depend on for irrigation and domestic water. The safety record of existing pipelines doesn't phase them.

Not in My Back Yard, they cry.

But the Canadian oil will be sold somewhere, likely to foreign competitors rather than to the U.S., if we don't approve the pipeline. Or it will be shipped south in solid trainloads of oil, much more susceptible to spills and explosions than a pipeline.

Across the country, groups have tried to stop or slow other advances in domestic energy production, which together have eliminated the threat that we will run out of oil or gas any century soon.

There are, to be sure, questions about new production methods, including water flooding and hydraulic fracturing, both of which are sometimes blamed for the increase in earthquakes in Oklahoma, Kansas and elsewhere in the "oil patch."

It's hard to realize that a nation which once thought of itself as basically out of the game in oil and gas production now leads the world in energy reserves, or that cheap natural gas now competes with coal to produce our electricity – and makes far less carbon pollution to boot.

But that's where we are today.

You can argue about what's best in terms of global warming. We think the nation as a whole will continue to use less energy and release less carbon, where possible, but it seems unlikely that we will revert to the pre-industrial era any time soon.

We will need energy to run our gizmos and light our houses, and it's far better to use what we can produce here than to import from unstable countries in this hemisphere or the other.

It's a cowardly political move to delay approval of the pipeline until after the elections, but it will eventually be built because we need the Canadian oil, just as we need more domestic production.

Meantime, it's politics as usual in Washington, where getting re-elected usually trumps everything else. – Steve Haynes

Use this old world wisely

This is a special week for those who are involved with the production of food and fiber: it marked the 44th observance of Earth Day on Tuesday.

The original premise of Earth Day was to promote the conservation of our natural resources. It is only fitting that on this day we showcase the progress of the Kansas farmer and rancher – but is there really any question most people who live on the planet Earth support its survival?

To help put Earth Day in perspective, this celebration of our planet really began gathering steam at the beginning of the 1990s. It became a very "in" thing to bang the environmental drum.

Back then, I remember "Fortune" magazine proclaiming for the first time the environment was a cause worthy of saving. Others shouted from the mountaintops that while Motherhood, apple pie, baseball and the flag all may be subject to controversy – saving our planet was beyond debate.

This same idea is back in vogue today. In this perfect world, people will fully understand the tools they use, and some believe they can provide for themselves without depending on professionals and specialists.

Life would slow down and be viewed as a whole, they say. This ideology offers a sense of place – of being rooted. Ancient wisdom and grassroots democracy are essential. Quality and equality of life are where it's at. Much is said about ends, but little about means. This ideology speaks poetically about much – but plainly about little.

So what happens after Earth Day?

"Real time or Northwest Kansas time?" he asked again.

This time I responded with "Ahhhh?" I did not want to waste such quick responses like "huh?" twice in the same conversation. "You haven't lived here very long, have you?" he asked knowingly.

"How can you tell?" I asked, fearing it was because I was wearing two-toned wingtips with a tie-dyed t-shirt that read, "Free Captain Kangaroo," and a pair of lime green polyester bell-bottoms.

I know these things are subtle clues, but college kids are smart these days, even on the phone.

"You haven't figured out the time difference yet, have you?"

"Time difference?" I repeated.

I figured if I repeated what he said for a while, he wouldn't know I was completely lost for maybe two or three minutes (if I were lucky).

"You see," he explained, "if the clock says 1 p.m., real time, then you add 35 minutes to it for Northwest Kansas time. So if you have a meeting, say at 3 p.m., then you know no one will even think about getting there before 3:35."

"Wow," I said with knowledge about to dawn. "That explains so much, like why I'm always standing around for 30 minutes when I go some place. Where did you learn this?"

"Well," he said in a sage voice, "I never really realized it until I went away to college. I would arrive on Northwest Kansas time and classes would be started or meetings would be over, and I finally understood."

"Wow," I said once again, "this is going to save me a lot of time. Just tonight I have to be in Burlington at 6 p.m. and now I know not to go until 35 minutes later than I was told to arrive."

"Ahhhhh... no," he said, interrupting my musings.

"No?" I said, back to repeating his comments.

"No, you see, you can't measure Burlington time in minutes. You have to do that in days."

TVTime is meant at humor. TVHagenah is a teacher at Grant Junior High School. Our hope here at the Star-News is that he will turn in his next column on time (anybody's 'on time').

Not if, but when

The question on everyone's lips seems to be, "When will Kansas legalize marijuana?"

And the answer is as easy as it is simple: "Not in our lifetime."

Marijuana undoubtedly can be bad for you. It can make people lazy and rob them of any desire to do anything. It may alter the brain. It certainly can make people act stupid.

But it's nowhere near as dangerous as several legal substances, including alcohol, which makes people mean and figures in a huge proportion of police calls, and tobacco, which kills you.

We gave up on prohibition for alcohol not because it was the wrong thing to do, but because it turned out to be impossible. All it did was create an era of violence unrivaled by anything our country had seen in decades, except for the more recent "war on drugs." That and help the Mob finance Las Vegas.

We learned the hard way that you can't ban something people want and can get. Gin you could make in a bathtub, marijuana you can grow in the basement. And let's not kid ourselves, we've lost the "war."

Colorado raised the white flag and started collecting taxes on the stuff instead. When legislators get a load of the potential rakeoff, other revenue-starved states will follow suit. The progression will be like that on state lotteries, where the states fell in line one by one and, eventually, muscled the Mob right out of the old "numbers" racket, which we now call Lotto.

The definition of sin, it seems, depends entirely on who is making the money.

But when will Kansas tumble? Well, we adopted prohibition earlier than most states. That came in 1881; nationwide prohibition didn't begin until 1919, and the country abandoned the "great experiment" in 1933, just 14 years later.

Kansas didn't fully repeal prohibition until 1987, when voters eliminated the constitutional declaration that "the open saloon shall be forever banned." In fact, Kansas never did ratify the 21st Amendment repealing prohibition, and likely never will.

As William Allen White is thought to have said, "Kansas would vote dry as long as they could stagger to the polls."

Kansas did legalize package-store sales of liquor in 1948, 15 years after the national end of prohibition. That might give us some guidance as to when troublesome laws against simple possession of marijuana might be relaxed here.

"On-premises" consumption, or liquor by the drink, continued to be illegal for another 39 years. During that time, Kansas law decreed that liquor could only be consumed in private places, such as fraternal clubhouses, and at home. Exceptions were made for "3.2" beer, which the Legislature declared not to be "an alcoholic beverage," and sharpies began to push the definition of a private club.

I remember when the bartender at the country club or the VFW had to keep separate bottles for each customer, mixing our folks' drinks only from their stock. Later, the state legalized "community" bottles owned by the club as a whole, and still later, virtual liquor by the drink for clubs.

As of two years ago, the state still had 13 "dry" counties where liquor by the drink is banned under the county option law. Package sales apparently are legal statewide, however.

So you could say it took 54 years for Kansas to mostly repeal prohibition, but after 80 years, we still have dry counties. You think we'll be any faster to legalize dope?

Ha!

This was the home of Carrie Nation, after all.

Atwood farmer one of several given sustainability grant

The North Central Region Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education Program recently announced the projects recommended for funding for the Farmer Rancher and Youth Educator competitive grant programs. More than 50 grant projects were selected to receive a total of more than $500,000 through these two grant programs, which offer competitive grants for farmers, ranchers, youth educators, organizations, and others who are exploring sustainable agriculture in America's Midwest.

For the 2014 Farmer Rancher Grant Program, more than $486,000 was awarded to more than 40 projects. The Farmer Rancher Grant Program is a competitive grants program for farmers and ranchers who want to explore sustainable solutions to problems through on-farm research, demonstration, and education projects.

Chris Sramek of Sramek Family Farm, LLC in Atwood, Kansas was selected to receive $22,500 for the project, "Feasibility, planning and purchase of Mobile Processing Unit (MPU) for Scaling up Free Range Poultry Meat Processing for High Volume Retail Market." A group of High Plains poultry producers will complete feasibility, planning, implementation, purchase, and fabrication of a mobile processing unit.

Supreme Court accepting public comments on videoconferencing

The Kansas Supreme Court has made available for public comment recommendations it recently received from its committee proposing standards, best practices and procedures for increased videoconferencing use in court settings.
The report, Recommendations for Videoconferencing in Kansas Courts, is based on extensive evaluation of legal and logistical issues by a 16-member committee appointed in late 2012. The committee included attorneys from private practice and government service, appellate and district court judges, information technology staff, and district court clerks.
"Increased use of videoconferencing technology in court proceedings will lead to cost savings for the court, reduced costs for civil litigants, and increased convenience for lawyers and witnesses," said Wendel Wurst, chief judge of the 25th Judicial District and chair of the committee. "What we seek to establish is the foundation for that to occur."

The committee's recommendations expand on ideas posed by the Kansas Supreme Court's Blue Ribbon Commission during Project Pegasus. They reflect the group's objective analysis of practical issues related to increased videoconferencing use, as well as legal considerations raised by the Supreme Court Research Clinic at the University of Kansas School of Law.
"In the end, we will have statewide standards that make efficient use of our courts' limited financial and personnel resources while maintaining constitutional protections for people charged with crimes," Wurst said.
In criminal cases that could result in incarceration, videoconferencing will be used only to the extent it does not interfere with the defendant's right to confront his or her accuser.

However, some criminal defendants are already appearing by videoconferencing for procedural hearings, which saves courts transportation and security costs.
In civil cases, it will allow certain witnesses to appear by videoconferencing from another location, saving the witness time and parties to the case money. According to the recommendations, video testimony is generally allowed, but the opposing party has the opportunity to contest it.
For lawyers arguing before the Kansas Court of Appeals, the opportunity to appear by videoconference means no need to travel to Topeka or another location where a three-judge panel has convened. This means considerable savings for the lawyers' clients.
"The committee has wisely taken more than a year to thoroughly review this complex topic," said Chief Justice Lawton R. Nuss.

The Colby Police said the woman was not hurt and was being held at the Thomas County jail pending formal charges.

"As a standard practice and in accordance with Highway Patrol policy," it added, "the trooper has been placed on administrative leave while this case is being investigated."
The Kansas Bureau of Investigation was called to handle the case. A Crime Scene Investigation unit was on the way to the area this morning.

Everyone who is interested in digging deeper into their genealogy and family history will be interested in this year's conference, which will be held June 14 at The Cedars Conference Center in McPherson.

This year's conference speaker, Valerie Eichler Lair, is a nationally known researcher, consultant, presenter and author with extensive experience helping others trace and record their family history. She is a member of the Association of Professional Genealogists as well as several local and regional genealogical societies. Lair's research experience and involvement in local societies provide the real-life scenarios from which her instruction flows. She is renowned for her engaging style and for the detailed information offered in her presentations.

The first session, Genealogical Proof Standard: Our GPS explains the guidelines that the pros follow in analyzing and documenting their research, and the important reasons why you should use these guidelines as well.

The second session, Probate: Where There's A Will (or No Will), There's A Way, Lair will discuss the vast amount of genealogical information in a probate/estate packet, and what you need to know when doing probate research. She also explains the probate process and the records created at each step in it.

Finding Females will be the topic of the third session. Ways to overcome the barriers in finding your female ancestors, one of the most difficult tasks a genealogy researcher has, will be presented.

If you are still not finding that particular church record you need to document a date, name, and place for your ancestors, the fourth session Church Denomination Archives, will provide help in locating both the records and the archives that contain them.

This year's conference addresses several important issues that family researchers face regularly. Early registration is encouraged, which includes a catered lunch and conference syllabus. For more information and to print a registration form, visit www.KCGS.us or write KCGS, Box 3858, Topeka Kan. 66604.

Lodge continues after 125 years

The Goodland Masonic Lodge passed a mile stone in its history. On Feb. 20, 1889, the Goodland Masonic Lodge #321, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of Kansas was granted its charter. The Grand Master, at the time the Charter was granted, was George C. Kenyon and the Grand Secretary was John H. Brown.

The Masons are known for their activities in dedication of new buildings, locally for sending grade school kids to the Shrine Circus, sponsoring students in music and football players in the Shrine Bowl and band camp as well as scholarships for students to attend college. The Shrine Masons, or Shriners, operate the largest network of hospitals for burned and orthopaedically impaired children in the country.

In the spring of 1889 the Masonic Fraternity of Goodland held a public installation of officers at the Sherman County Court House. The first officers of the lodge were Robert Lenon, Master; Thomas R. Hickey, Senior Warden; John H. Tait, Junior Warden; Junior Warden; and Eugene F. Murphy, Secretary.

The Grand Army of the Republic and Woman's Relife Corps started excavation in June 15, 1889, of a building on the northeast corner of 8th Street and Main Avenue, lot 14, block 45 in the second addition of Goodland. The Masons met in the union hall from Nov. 16, 1889, to Dec. 23, 1899.

In November 1895 the Masonic Lodge #321 had a banquet at the Palace Hotel, northwest corner of 8th Street and Main Avenue, inviting Masons and their wives from Atwood and Burlington, but the snow and cold kept most away. Goodland's lodge had a reputation of doing the best third degree work of any lodge in Kansas and Colorado and they were to entertain at the banquet that night. Other gatherings were held at this hotel.

The Masons in 1899 went back to the quarters over A. L. Tomblin's bank, now called the Goodland City Bank. Tomblin of Stansbury, Mo., had a bank first in Eustis. He then had it moved brick by brick to Goodland in May 1888 and rebuilt the building. He extended the building 30 feet to the west in June 1888.

On Oct. 7, 1904, at 920 1/2 Main Avenue, the northwest corner of 10th Street and Main Avenue, lot 11 and 12, block 52, south of the Seyler building, Mason Carl B. Ryckman did the excavating for a new Masonic Lodge #321 building. The masons were building the north 25 feet of the first story and all of the 50 feet of the second story, while the Goodland State Bank was building the south lower room. The Masons moved in on Feb. 3, 1905. A Main Avenue stairway was used to go to the second story room where the Masons had their meetings and did degree work. The building used 178,000 bricks with a cost of $6.50 per thousand.

The Masons used the hall behind Tipton's Hardware at 1006 Main when they had bigger events starting after 1924.

On Sept. 12, 1983, the members of the lodge voted to build a new one-level building at 519 Center. The ground breaking was Oct. 8, 1983, on land donated by Mrs. Hazel Rebecca Hays, whose red brick home was south on Center Avenue. She also donated in the name of her husband Orval Hays the red brick for the building to match her house. The Lodge moved into the building on Jan. 1, 1985 and the dedication was on Feb. 27, 1988. The building was built by Rhoads Construction Company with plumbing and heating by McClure Plumbing and Heating. The electrical work was done by students attending the Northwest Kansas Technical College.

The cornerstone was removed on Oct. 20, 1984, from the old lodge hall above the Goodland State Bank building and was placed in the new building.

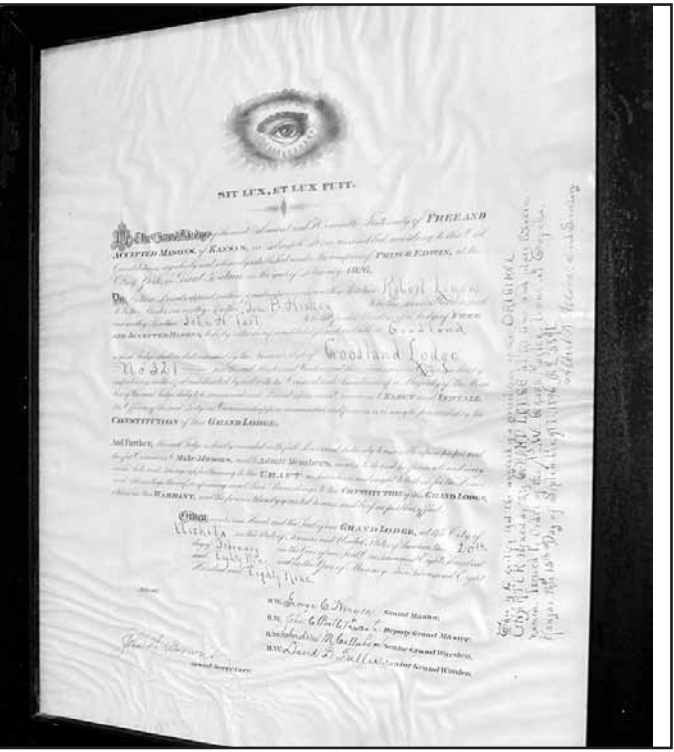

On April 15, 2010, the lodge purchased the lots 21, 22, 23 and 24, north of the building on Center Avenue for $15,000 from Field Works LLC of Arizona.

The Lodge has had 94 different Masters. Several of them served more than one year. Pictures of all but one are on display in the Lodge Dining Room.

In 1956 Karl J. Baumgartner served as the Grand Master for the Grand Lodge of A.F. and A.M. of Kansas. The only member of the Goodland Lodge to do so.

Spanning the Lodge's 125 years, it has had only 14 different secretaries. Eugene F. Murphy was the first and he served 12 years. Next were Robert J. Jones and Alfred Dawson who each served one year. John J. Knight served seven years, Curtis C. Calvert four years, Camillo W. Jupe 26 years, Leo J. Schisler 41 years, William C. Pittman 11 years, Stuart P. Pittman two years, Larry Dale Goodwin two years, Dennis A. Friedrich one year, Roy C. Baum two years and Warren Kenneth Baum, Sr. 13 years. and James L. Alcorn for two years as of 2014.

Asparagus patch isn't large enough

By Kay Melia

Master Gardener
vkmelia@yahoo.com

Lightly salted and lavishly buttered, just snapped off in the garden, briefly steamed asparagus is such a delight! It must be sinful! Every spring, I wolf down tender spears with shameless gluttony....at least until my wife reminds me that she's hooked on the stuff, too! There never seems to be enough.

I think back about 30 years ago when I planted that "much too small" patch of the old Mary Washington variety of asparagus. It certainly wasn't easy.

My instructions were to dig a foot-wide trench, at least a foot

deep, add 3 or 4 inches of horse manure, plus a little old straw or rotten hay. Then carefully lay out the spider-like roots and crowns of a dozen plants. Cover deeply with good soil, and then wait.

I waited most of the summer because that's what the book said to do. A few skinny spears emerged.

The next spring more skinny spears showed up that grew into frilly fern-like plants, but still nothing to eat. But the second year! Along came scattered half inch diameter spears that were crammed into the steamer and enjoyed for dinner.

It has been much the same procedure for the last 23 years; light pickings of absolutely delicious steamed, or occasionally creamed goodness, the true gustatory pleasure of the spring garden!

And that's the true story of my "much too small" asparagus patch. I'm writing about asparagus today to encourage you not to make the same mistakes I did.

For one thing, don't be so chintzy! Plant two dozen crowns, and you just might harvest enough for two hungry adults.

For another thing, don't plant Mary (or Martha) Washington crowns, which were actually the only varieties available when I started my patch. Plant the highly productive all-male crowns called Jersey Supreme, or Jersey Giant, or any other variety that carries the Jersey name.

Here's another thing. You do not have to spend so much time preparing the bed when you plant asparagus. Not anymore. The book has changed! A six-inch deep trench is plenty deep enough. Scatter a little chicken or horse manure in the trench, or even a sprinkling of commercial fertilizer with a label of 0-20-0. Avoid adding nitrogen. And another thing.

You do not have to carefully spread out the spider-like roots in the trench. Most folks just toss the whole crown in the trench and get perfect results. You no longer have to coddle those things! You can if you want to but you don't have to!

And wait two years for the first harvest? You just don't need to. Snap off a few tender spears that very next spring, and then in two years, you too can aspire to a severe case of asparagus gluttony.

Here's the main thing. If you dislike the taste of asparagus, then don't dig trenches in your garden and don't worry about spider-like roots and stay away from the chicken and horse manure

The best and final thing about establishing an asparagus bed is the almost certain result.

We used to make hard work out of planting asparagus, but with improved varieties and planting methods, the heavy work has been eliminated.

So, go ahead and plant three dozen crowns this spring. You'll make new friends and happier neighbors!

Poisoned kids are getting into parents' medicine

Today Safe Kids Worldwide released a new research report identifying new insights into why kids are getting into medicine nearly 500,000 times per year. Every minute of every day, a poison control center receives a call about a potential medicine poisoning for a child age five and under. And 64,000 times each year, or every eight minutes, a young child goes to the emergency room for medicine poisoning. In three out of four (77 percent) of those visits, a child got into medicine belonging to a parent or grandparent. A surprising 38 percent of the time, a child got into a grandparent's medicine.

In its report entitled Keeping Families Safe Around Medicine, Safe Kids examined data from the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission and information from Poison Control Centers. In addition, to understand grandparents' behavior when it comes to medicine safety, Safe Kids conducted research among more than 1,000 grandparents who regularly supervise young grandchildren.

The makeup of a "typical" household has changed significantly in recent years. Since 2005, there has been a 23 percent increase in the number of grandparents living with their grandchildren. And 13 percent of grandparents provide care for a grandchild on a regular basis. While older adults only make up 13 percent of the population, they account for 34 percent of all prescription medicine use. In the Safe Kids survey, 74 percent of grandparents who regularly care for a grandchild reported taking a prescription medicine every day. This new dynamic of children being around more adult medicine in the home makes medicine safety a more important topic than ever for families.

The research revealed that, like parents, grandparents know to keep medicine up and away from children. But there are clearly exceptions being made that are driving nearly half a million calls to Poison Control Centers each year. About 28 percent of grandparents who take care of their grandkids every day keep their medicines in easy-open containers or bottles without a child-resistant cap. Among grandparents who use these, 42 percent keep prescription medicine on a bathroom or kitchen sink, counter, table or shelf – locations that are easily accessible to young children. About 12 percent of grandparents who take care of their grandkids every day keep prescription medicine on a nightstand or dresser where kids can easily get into it. And 13 percent keep medicine on a counter or table between doses when giving medicine to a child.

"Every parent and grandparent knows to keep medicine up and away from kids," said Kate Carr, President and chief executive officer of Safe Kids Worldwide. "But it's the exceptions, that one time when you leave your medicine in reach of a child, that lead to these alarming situations. And it happens every minute of every day, resulting in nearly half a million calls to Poison Control Centers every year."

When asked what they would do in an emergency, more than half the respondents said they wouldn't think to call the Poison Help Number, (800) 222-1222, first. But it's a smart call to make: In seven out of ten calls to the Poison Help Number, the child can be treated at home under the guidance of the registered nurses and toxicologists who answer the 24-hour hotline, with no trip to the emergency department and at no expense to the family.

Cowboys lose doubleheader to Colby

By Kevin Bottrell
kbottrell@nwkansas.com

It was a frustrating day at Memorial Field on Tuesday as the Goodland High School baseball team took the lead in both games of a doubleheader against Colby, but allowed the Eagles to come back and win 10-7 and 16-5.

Next action for the Cowboys is at 3 p.m. today at home against Thomas More Prep-Marian.

Taylen Smith was the starting pitcher for the Cowboys in game one. In the top of the first, the Eagles batted one run in. The Cowboys pulled even in the bottom of the second when a sacrifice fly by Luke Avila brought Kelby Smith home. Later in the inning, T.R. Jones hit a fly ball that was missed by the Colby infielders, allowing Nolan Deeds to score the go-ahead run. Tyler Amthor flew out to end the inning.

Leading 2-1, the Cowboys retired the Eagles in order in the top of the third, then extended their lead on an RBI single by Taylen Smith. Avila then came home on a ground out to make the score 4-1.

The Cowboys added another two runs in the bottom of the fourth on a two-RBI double by Avila.

The wheels came off the wagon in the top of the fifth. A Colby runner made it on base after being hit by a pitch, then made it to third on a missed pick-off attempt. A walk put runners on the corners and back-to-back singles scored two runs.

After a fly out, the Eagles scored two runs on errors and three on base hits to take an 8-6 lead. A runner was thrown out attempting to steal to end the inning.

The Cowboys were retired in order in the bottom of the fifth. Amthor came in to relieve Taylen Smith on the mound in the top of the sixth. Despite two walks, the Cowboys got out of the inning with a double play by Avila and Deeds.

Amthor led off the bottom of the sixth with a base hit. A fly ball by John Hendrich was dropped, but Amthor was thrown out at second. Taylen Smith struck out, then Hendrich made it to third after a missed pick-off attempt. He scored on a wild pitch to make it 8-7. Kelby Smith hit a triple, but was left on base when Avila grounded out.

The Eagles put two runs across in the top of the seventh to make it 10-7. In the bottom half of the inning, Deeds walked. After a Colby pitching change, Josh David and Cade Mayer struck out. Jones hit a standup double, but was left on base when Amthor grounded out for the final out of the game. The Cowboys lost 10-7.

Kelby Smith was the starting pitcher for game two. The Eagles took a quick 2-0 lead in the top of the first, but the Cowboys came back and tied the game 2-2 with an RBI single by Hendrich and an RBI double by Taylen Smith. He would later score on a wild pitch to give the Cowboys a 3-2 lead. Kelby Smith got aboard on a dropped strike three and Deeds singled to put runners on the corners for Mayer, who got his first RBI single as a Cowboy to make the score 4-2.

Colby put one run across in the top of the third, answered by an RBI single for Deeds to make it 5-3.

The Eagles rallied in the fourth and fifth innings, scoring four runs to take a 7-5 lead. They extended it to 10-6 in the top of the sixth before the Cowboys made a pitching change, replacing Kelby Smith with Avila. Avila gave up four runs before getting the Cowboys out of the inning.

The Eagles added another two runs in the top of the seventh and with the Cowboys unable to put together a rally, the game ended after seven innings with a 16-5 win for Colby.

Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
